SINKING OF EVELYN NOT LIKELY TO LEAD TO SERIOUS MIX

CLAIM FOR DAMAGES ONLY LIKELY RESULT

Owner of Evelyn Considers Loss of American Ship Due to War Risk He Had Taken.

Washington, Feb. 22.—Secretary Daniels today ordered Commander Walter R. Gherardi, American naval attaché at Berlin, to investigate and make a full report on the destruction of the American steamer Evelyn, which is supposed to have hit a mine off the German coast. So far officials advise have reported the sinking of the vessel and her cargo but gave no details.

Senator Simmons, one of the framers of the bill which created the war risk bureau, a white house caller today, said he assumed an effort would be made first to establish the responsibility for the sinking of the Evelyn and that if the nationality of the mine could be discovered the government war risk bureau would make efforts to collect damages.

"The war risk bureau has all the powers of a private insurance company," said Senator Simmons. "When the government goes into a business of this kind it loses its official status, but simply because this is a government agency it does not have less right than a private agency of the same kind would have."

Secretary Daniels explained that his purpose in directing an inquiry after the state department had called upon the ambassadors at London and Berlin for a report was to secure technical information which perhaps might not be included in the ambassadors' replies. It was, of course, understood that Commander Gherardi as American attaché at Berlin would be guided entirely by Ambassador Gerard in making his investigation. It was said at the navy department that from indications it would be difficult for the naval officer to secure exact information as to what actually destroyed the Evelyn. Unless Captain Smith or some of the members of the crew actually saw the conning tower or periscope of a submarine, officials say it would not be possible to deny that the Evelyn was sunk by a mine.

The fact that the Evelyn lies at the bottom of the North sea would make it difficult to examine her hull. It was pointed out, however, that German officials might disclose to the American naval officer in confidence the map of their mine field in the vicinity where the Evelyn was sunk.

Thinks It Accidental.
The minister from the Netherlands called at the state department early today to inquire what reports this government had received about the Evelyn. He said he had no official report of the destruction of the vessel. After conferring with Councillor Lansing he expressed the opinion that the sinking apparently must have been entirely accidental.

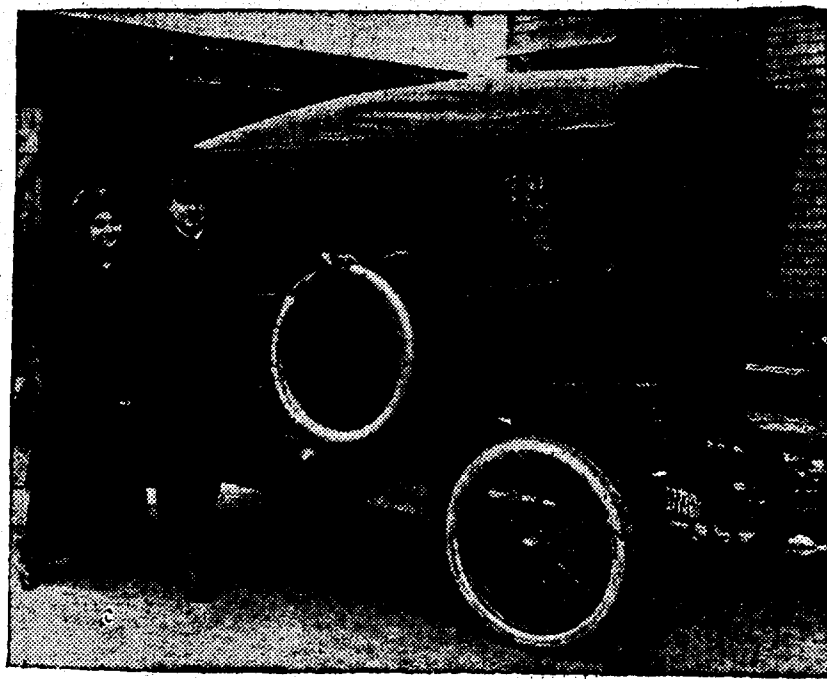

Chairman Stone, of the senate foreign relations committee, said he could see no complications arising from the destruction of the Evelyn.

"An American vessel," said the senator, "ventured into an area known to be mined and unfortunately struck one. So far it is not known what nation laid the mine. It is probable that a national claim for damages might be made when all the facts are established, but I cannot see how serious complications could come from the incident."

LOSS DUE TO WAR RISK.
Owners of Evelyn Will Make No Protest to State Department.

New York, Feb. 22.—William L. Harris, of the firm which owned the steamship Evelyn, sunk in the North sea yesterday, said today that his firm would make no protest to the state department, as he considered the loss of the ship due to a war risk which he had taken.

MR. AND MRS. LOREN G. JONES AND AUTO GIVEN THEM BY FORT WAYNE FRIENDS.

One of the novel incidents of the Lyon evangelistic campaign in Fort Wayne developed Saturday evening when Mr. and Mrs. Loren G. Jones, choir director and pianist of the party, were presented an automobile by members of the choir of 600 in appreciation of the work and the kindness of the gifted director and his wife.

SOLON'S NAME ON EACH ROSE

Woman Suffragists Send a Big Floral Offering to Senate.

LADIES LAUD THE PASSAGE OF BILL

Legislature Too Busy to Permit Observance of Holiday.

Indianapolis, Feb. 22.—To show their appreciation of the senate's action in passing the Maston woman suffrage bill, the woman's legislative council today presented a large bunch of roses to the senate, each rose bearing the name of a senator. Mrs. Stimson of Terre Haute, chairman of the council, was loud in her praise today of the senate's hurried action on the bill last week, and said that she had been given assurances that the house would take similar action on the measure.

"Just as the negroes have never forgotten the republican party," smilingly said Mrs. Stimson, "likewise will the women of Indiana never forget the splendid action taken by this democratic legislature."

No Liquor Elections.
Mrs. Stimson voiced the same opinion as to the effect of the proposed law on the question of women being permitted to vote in "wet and dry elections as did legislative reference librarian John A. Lepp. Both said this right under the measure would not be denied to woman voters. The bill was referred today to the house committee on judiciary A.

The fact that the nation was celebrating the natal day of George Washington did not deter the legislators from their task of lawmaking. Both houses convened at 10 o'clock and no let-up was in sight until late. Because of the rush of business the customary patriotic speeches were dispensed with. The house passed seven bills and received six others while the upper house disposed of two senate bills and received ten new measures.

Rival Factions There.
Washington's birthday enabled persons in Bloomington and Lafayette, interested in the Van Auker bill to move Indiana university to Lafayette to invade the city early in the day. A crowd estimated at between 300 and 400 came to this city from Bloomington to attend the public hearing this afternoon on the bill before the senate finance committee, and busied themselves with the celebration.

PRESIDENT WILSON MAKES SELECTIONS

Names Five Members of the New Federal Trade Commission.

Washington, Feb. 22.—President Wilson today nominated the following members of the new federal trade commission: Joseph E. Davies, of Madison, Wis.; Edward N. Hurley, of Chicago; William J. Harris, of Cedar Rapids, Ia.; William H. Parry, of Seattle, Wash., and George Ruble, of Cornish, N. H.

Politically the commission has three democrats, one progressive-republican and one progressive. Parry is described by the white house as a progressive-republican and Ruble as a progressive. Mr. Davies is commissioner of the bureau of corporations, which is merged with the commission under the new law. Mr. Hurley is a business man and trade expert with extended knowledge of Latin-American conditions. Mr. Harris is a director of the census; Mr. Parry is a lawyer and business man and Mr. Ruble is a lawyer.

GRINDS OUT DELAYED APPROPRIATION BILLS

Congress, With Nine More Working Days, Puts on Full Steam.

Washington, Feb. 22.—Congress is observing George Washington's birthday by grinding out long delayed appropriation bills. Only nine working days of the present session of congress remain and both house and senate are centering their whole attention on the big supply bills.

In the senate work was resumed on the army appropriation bill, while in the house consideration of the fortifications bill was renewed. The latter measure furnished the text for a discussion of military preparedness. Representative Gardner, of Massachusetts, having given notice of his intention to speak on the subject.

Senate republicans intend to put a larger submarine building program in the pending naval bill than has been provided by the house. Senator Smoot today introduced an amendment recommending fifty sea-going submarines and 25 smaller ones. For the first year it would appropriate $30,000,000.

TRAIN HITS INSANE MAN

Warren B. Webster Killed by Wabash Locomotive Near Grabill.

FLED SUNDAY FROM A HOSPITAL HERE

Body Found by Foreigner in Ditch Near Track East of Grabill.

Warren B. Webster, aged 54, a well known farmer residing in Jefferson township, eleven miles east of Fort Wayne, was killed by a Wabash train at a point a mile east of the town of Grabill at some time early Monday morning, after he had fled from St. Joseph hospital in this city, where he had been undergoing treatment for dementia.

The body was found just after daylight by a foreigner who was recently released from jail here and was walking on the Wabash railroad. The remains were lying in a ditch beside the track and on the head were several injuries that had caused death.

Fled From Hospital.
Webster, who was brought to the hospital last week for treatment for his mental condition, slipped away from that institution about 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. He had during the day told his nurse several times that he was going home and she concealed his last where he could not procure it without asking. When he found an opportunity to slip out of the hospital Webster fled bareheaded. Soon he was missed and the police department and the sheriff's office were notified to look out for him.

No trace could be gained of the fugitive here in the city and late in the afternoon Sheriff A. C. Gladieux, who was well acquainted with him, took his car and went searching in the region of Webster's home. None of his relatives or other friends had seen him.

Seen by Two Officers.
Between 3:30 and 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon Sheriff Gladieux while walking north on Calhoun street, saw Webster approaching from the west on Main street. The men exchanged greetings, but Sheriff Gladieux, not at that time knowing Webster had been in the hospital and had but then just fled from the institution, paid no special attention to him. About 4:30 Deputy Sheriff D. G. Mills, who had been out motoring in the country with a friend, passed Webster on the Lincoln highway near the Maumee Brick and Tile company's plant, east of the city. Deputy Mills did not at that time know Webster was a fugitive.

Called at Restaurant.
Sheriff Gladieux returned through New Haven about 8 o'clock Sunday evening and stopped at Ellison's restaurant and inquired there of a number of men if they had seen the fugitive.

Sheriff Gladieux received word Monday that shortly after he had left Ellison's restaurant, Sunday evening, a hatless man had appeared at the back door of that place and knocked. When the door was opened and inquiry made as to what was wanted, the man turned out to be Webster.

HUNDREDS GATHER TO SAY GOOD-BYE

Farewell Message Delivered by Dr. M. H. Lyon in Pennsylvania Station —4,896 Decisions.

TABERNACLE FIGURES.

Previous decisions	4,522

The Thank Offering.
Total for the day$5,761.07
Salaries to pay 1,300.00
Dr. Lyon's share 4,461.07
Contributions may be left at the First National bank up to Thursday. As other contributions are expected it is believed that the total offering will reach $6,000.

"Even though you forget me don't forget the Lord, Jesus Christ."

Thus spoke Dr. Milford H. Lyon as he made his way through the crowd that filled the large waiting room of the Pennsylvania station to its capacity, gathered there to bid him good-bye.

Standing on the back of one of the seats he delivered his farewell address, taking for his subject, "The Inner Circle." He spoke of the circle of faith, service, fellowship, privilege, but greater than all these is the inner circle—the circle of love.

"If you are once in love with the Lord, Jesus Christ, you have something that is real," he said in closing. Then he shook hands with all he could get with the greatest difficulty he made his way to the train. Seeking a last glimpse at the evangelist the crowd followed him, waving good-bye as the train pulled out.

With a total of 4,896 decisions and an offering for Dr. Lyon amounting to $5,761.07, probably the greatest tabernacle meeting ever held in the state of Indiana, came to a close Sunday night after a campaign of seven weeks.

May Continue Contributions.
People are privileged to continue their offerings until Thursday, leaving them with C. H. Worden at the First National bank, and it is confidently expected that, after all contributions have been made, in excess of $6,000 will have been given.

Dr. Lyon for his splendid services in Fort Wayne. Out of this amount the evangelist must pay half of the salaries of his assistants, amounting to $1,300.

The great good resulting from the meetings cannot be told in figures. There has been a general religious awakening both in and out of the churches. New interest has been aroused and Fort Wayne will be much the better city morally and spiritually as a result of the efforts of Dr. Lyon and his most efficient assistants. The effect of this revival will be felt in the years to come.

Evangelist Exhausted.
The meeting Sunday night at the tabernacle closed with "God Be With You Until We Meet Again." At his own request no one rushed forward to shake hands with Dr. Lyon, telling him good-bye. Almost utterly exhausted he left the platform waving at the big audience as he descended the steps for the last time. He had closed the greatest revival in his career as an evangelist and after a week's rest at his home at Wilkes, Pa., will begin another campaign at Tiffin, Ohio, and after he finishes there he will go to Terre Haute for a campaign even more strenuous, it is believed, than the one he has conducted in Fort Wayne.

Members of his party will spend the week as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Jones will drive through to Tiffin in their new automobile and make a tour of that section of Ohio; Rev. H. H. Pitzer has gone to his home in Lansing, Mich., to turn to begin a series of meetings of his own next Sunday at New Haven; Rev. Ray G. Upson left at noon for his home at Wilkes, Pa.; Mrs. Daisy Barr has gone to her home in Fairmount and Guy Sutton will spend the week with relatives at Yorktown, Ind.

Rev. Folsom Makes Plan.
Rev. Arthur J. Folsom made the plan for the offering at the tabernacle. S. F. Bowser, chairman of the offering committee, urged the audience to be liberal.

When Dr. Lyon entered the building he was given a wonderful ovation, the demonstration continuing for several minutes. After ascending to the platform he bowed and took his seat with the evangelists.

Germans Claim Additional Capture of Russians in East Prussia.

SAY TENTH ARMY WAS WIPED OUT

Berlin Says Recent Losses of Allies Have Been Very Heavy.

Today's War News Given in Summary.

The German war office announced today that the Russian tenth army was "considered as having been destroyed" as a result of the recent German victory in East Prussia. It is stated that more than 100,000 Russians, including seven generals, were captured, and that the pursuit of the retreating forces has now been brought to an end. The Russian military authorities, however, acknowledge no such losses. They admit that one army corps was cut to pieces, but assert the main force extricated itself.

In the Vosges further German victories are claimed, including capture of another town. The German war office also states that the losses of the allies in recent fighting in the Champagne were "extraordinarily high."

The French war office announcement says that there have been no new developments of importance on the western front.

The Berlin report of the sinking of a British transport lacks confirmation from any other source.

Berlin, Feb. 22.—The German official statement issued today announces that captures in the battle of the Masurian lakes district of East Prussia have been increased to seven generals and more than 100,000 men. The places of cannon taken numbered 150.

The text of the statement reads: "In the western theater: Another battle trench was taken by us yesterday to the east of Ypres (in Belgium). The enemy's counter attacks on the captured position remained unsuccessful."

In the Champagne district there was comparatively quiet yesterday. The number of prisoners taken by us during the last battles in this region has been increased to fifteen officers and more than 1,000 men. The extraordinary losses of the enemy have been extraordinarily high.

"The enemy made an unsuccessful attack on our positions to the east of Verdun during the night."

French Report Indicates Little Progress in Fighting

Paris, Feb. 22.—The official communication given out today by the French war department says:

BOARD OF TRADE MEN BLOCK PRICE PROBE

Chicago Grain Brokers Refuse to Submit Books and Records.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—Grain brokers engaged in business on the Chicago board of trade have refused to submit their books or records to government officials investigating the high prices of wheat and flour, it was learned today. As a result it was declared the inquiry, which centers in the causes for the advanced price of bread, is at a standstill.

Charles F. Cline, the United States district attorney, has reported to Attorney General Gregory that the brokers in declining to submit their books, contended that they are under express obligations not to divulge the transactions of customers. The brokers asserted, it was said, that the same immunity from disclosure applies to their relations to their customers as to the relations between attorney and client. The district attorney sought access to the books of the brokers to ascertain whether the price of wheat was due to the actual demand for grain abroad or to speculation. In addition he is seeking to discover whether there is any conspiracy of the big operators to corer the wheat market.

POPE ENGAGED IN NEW PEACE EFFORT

Rome, Feb. 22.—Reports received by the secretary of state of the Vatican, says the Giornale d'Italia, show that Germany, although maintaining an excellent military position feels seriously the consequences of the war and therefore has modified materially her views on peace conditions to be imposed. The paper adds: "The pontiff considers such a condition of affairs lends itself favorably to diplomatic steps. He is reported again to have interpellated Emperor William to know on what conditions Germany would be disposed to negotiate peace, observing that in any case the military honor of Germany is safe."

FUNERAL RITES FOR DR. L. A. WORTH

Funeral rites for Dr. L. A. Worth, who ended his life last Friday evening in his office in the Lau building, corner Washington and Calhoun streets, were held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the family residence, 236 West Washington street. More than seven hundred persons who were unable to gain admittance in the house lined the sidewalks for a half block each way. Reverend Samuel Wagenhals had charge of the services at the house.

Interment was made at Lindenwood and the procession from the house to the cemetery was headed by the B. F. O. E. band. More than 250 members of the Elks lodge participated in the march.

NIGHT BATTLE WITH INDIANS

Possess of Utah Whites in Sharp Clashes With Piute Warriors.

BOTH SIDES GET REINFORCEMENTS

Attempt to Arrest Indian on Murder Charge Results in Warfare.

Denver, Col., Feb. 22.—After a battle throughout the night near Bluff, Utah, between a band of 52 Piute Indians and a posse of white men led by United States Marshal Aquila Nebeker, hands of citizens from various towns in Utah were preparing today to go to the assistance of the whites. The Indians also have been reinforced.

Two Indians and one white man have been killed; two Indians and a white man wounded and two Indians captured. One of those killed was an Indian maiden who was said to have run into the lines of battle. The fight started early Sunday morning when the whites, after several days' journey by wagon from Cortez, Colo., arrived at the camp of Tee Ne Gat, a Piute Indian leader whose arrest on a charge of murder was sought. Marshal Nebeker reported.

From Grayson, Utah, the following report of the battle was received last night from Marshal Nebeker:

"Posse of 26 men led by sheriff of Dolores county, Col., ex-Sheriff Jingles, of Montezuma county, Col., and Sheriff Popper, of San Juan county, Utah, left here last night to surprise and capture the Indians. At break of day this morning the posse surrounded the camp.

in which the Indians wanted were located. The Indians seemed to be expecting the posse and opened fire. C. A. Akim, of Dolores, Col., was killed in the beginning of the fight. An Indian called Jack's Brother was killed and an Indian girl who ran between the posse and the Indians was killed. The posse captured Indians named Howe and Jack. Both Indians are Chotaw warriors and it is said other Indians will try to recapture them.

Both Get Reinforcements.
 A band of Indians, known as Pose's band, came to their relief from the south. Pose's band wounded J. C. Cordova, of Cortez, one of our men who was placed to guard the southern approach. A posse of fifteen, all this town could arm, has been sent from here to assist the posse at Bluff. A posse of twenty-nine is on the road from Monticello, Utah, to assist those at Bluff. Communication between here and Bluff has been broken all day and has just been restored. The fighting continues fiercely.

Tee Ne Gat, who is also known as Everett Hatch, is charged with the murder last March of a Mexican. The band of which Tee Ne Gat is the leader is known as an uncontrollable tribe, which has on many occasions given settlers of southeastern Utah much trouble.

Lorenzo D. Creek, special Indian agent, arrived at Moab, Utah, last night en route to Bluff with instructions for Marshal Nebeker.

Call for Volunteers.
 A call for volunteers from Moab resulted in the mobilizing of twenty men who were prepared today to leave for the scene. From Grayson, fifteen men responded. An appeal for assistance to the Indian agency at Shiprock, New Mexico, also has been made. The posse which pursued Tee Ne Gat was organized at Cortez, Colo., several days ago by Marshal Nebeker, upon a request from District Attorney Tedrow, of Denver, for the arrest of the Indians. The trail of the fugitive led the posse through a remote, mountainous region, through the state line into Utah. By day and night marching the posse drew near the camp of the Indians. Instantly the Indians opened fire. Numerically in the minority, the posse held its own. From a southern pass through the rocks the posse heard early in the morning came to the assistance of the Piutes. Joseph Cordova, a member of the posse, who had been placed to guard the pass, was shot down. His condition was not reported.

 other things there is uncertainty, but about the fact of death there is no uncertainty. It is said that the posse came to see it must come to all.

ries of meetings. You are convinced that you ought to do. This door of opportunity is turning on its hinges. Sooner than you think, the door of your privilege will be closed, and when it is once shut it will be shut forever. Enter the door while you may. Do it now.

Total of 374 Decisions.
 And they did. It took very little persuasion for men from all parts of the big building marched bravely forward a dozen at a time to take a stand for Christ. It was the most wonderful demonstration that has ever been seen in Fort Wayne. Men who have been under conviction almost since the meetings began surrendered their lives to Christ. Even after the evangelist was preparing to leave the platform and go home they kept coming. There was a total of 374 decisions at Sunday's services.

In addressing those who had gone forward and the others in the audience who had taken the stand during the meetings Dr. Lyon urged them to get in a Bible class and study the word of God. He declared that the saved man is the saving man.

"Don't be a church tramp," he said. "Have a church home and don't wait for the pastor to hunt you up. Have a church home, however, in a church that believes in revivals. If you have a pastor who doesn't believe in soul winning turn that pastor out."

Rev. C. Claud Travis, pastor of the Wayne Street M. E. church, made the plea for the offering at the afternoon service for women. Although the meeting was not to begin until 3 o'clock the tabernacle was packed with women long before 2 o'clock, hundreds of them taking their dinners with them.

Dr. Lyon declared that people have heard much concerning the fatherhood of God, but too little of the husbandry of Jesus Christ. He said that the devil is the prince of the world and not Jesus Christ.

"The scourge of indifference which has been sweeping over Fort Wayne is largely to be laid at the doors of the society women," he exclaimed.

At the afternoon meeting men crowded around the doors to listen to the evangelist, although the meeting was for women. When the invitation was given the response was large, especially of older women. The opening prayer was offered by Mrs. Joseph Thompson, mother of Mrs. Loren G. Jones.

At the close of the meeting Sunday night Mr. Jones announced that a big chorus was to be organized in Fort Wayne and those desiring to join should notify Clint Willson. The Bible study books on Acts which will be studied by the various classes in the neighborhood, the high school and among the business girls, may be secured at the Y. W. C. A. this week. The price of the book is fifteen cents.

from the First Baptist church to hear Mrs. Daisy Barr and it became necessary to hold an overflow meeting in the Plymouth Congregational church. While the thank offering was being taken for Dr. Lyon, Mrs. Barr addressed the men at the Congregational church, which was also filled almost to its full capacity.

Mrs. Barr was given a most enthusiastic greeting as she entered the Baptist church, the men waving their handkerchiefs and clapping their hands for several minutes. Rev. Tomes had charge of the thank offering, a goodly sum being contributed.

The music was led by Rev. Upson, of the party, who seems capable of serving in almost any capacity. He can sing, preach, play the piano, direct choruses and look after the newspaper men, which in itself is one man's job. Though Mr. Upson does not come in contact with the public perhaps as much as the other members of the party, he is thoroughly alive and is always on the job. One of the features of the song service was a selection by the tabernacle quartet.

Mrs. Barr was introduced by Rev. Snabhall, who took occasion to praise the work of the women in this country and to urge the early adoption of woman's suffrage.

Religion and Business.
 Mrs. Barr spoke of the subject of "Religion and Business," and before she had finished nearly every man in the big audience was wiping the tears from his eyes. She said she had but one criticism for the people of Fort Wayne and that was that they were too clamorous. They need to get acquainted with each other. She urged the ministers to mingle more with the common people and to get in closer touch with the activities of men. "Speed the day when Jesus Christ will be known in every working man's heart," she urged.

Mrs. Barr said there were three ways in making men good: (1) Make them good by legislation; (2) be good for them, and (3) to help them to be good for themselves. Prayer was offered by Rev. Shirley. Baptismal services were held before the regular meeting began, several being publicly emerged.

Sunday Morning.
 Rev. A. J. Folsom made the appeal for the offering to Dr. M. H. Lyon at the morning service Sunday at the tabernacle. He spoke of the number of conversions and resurrections, and said that there had been many family altars established and that many fathers was sweeter and a mother less "grouchy" because of the Lyon meetings.

"We can not," said Mr. Folsom, "measure the good which the meetings of Dr. Lyon have accomplished. We are in the midst of a changed sentiment—saints are rejoicing and sinners are screaming for rage."

The offering was taken under the direction of Rev. Folsom and S. F. Bowser, chairman of the special committee appointed for the raising of the offering for Dr. Lyon.

thank the people for their offering, and said that "Billy" Sunday had told him that he was a fool for coming to Fort Wayne. The evangelist declared he had done the best he could and tried to keep sweet.

"I can't," he said, "hit the devil as hard as I ought to hit him." In the course of his morning sermon Dr. Lyon said that the reason he had not been more popular in Fort Wayne was because he did not cater to the gang and the high-toned society element.

The evangelist's declaration during the morning sermon that he would like to run for mayor of Fort Wayne was greeted with continued applause.

Saturday Night.
 A rousing meeting was the service at the tabernacle Saturday evening. During the preliminaries Clint Willson, chairman of the music committee, conducted the platform and said that in behalf of the choir and friends of Director and Mrs. Jones he was there to express deep regret that they were so soon to leave the city. Mr. Willson further said in part, "We have come to do more than appreciate and admire the ability of Mr. and Mrs. Jones and as we consider how soon they are to go from our midst we realize we are losing two dear friends whom we have come to love. As an evidence of this affection we have tried to find something to give them which they might use in their work for God and out of which they might get personal pleasure as well."

Mr. Willson then invited Mr. and Mrs. Jones upon the platform and unfolded some bundles weighted them down with tools, an auto horn out of which Mr. Jones got a boy's real fun. Mrs. Jones was bundled into an auto coat and Mr. Jones bidden to don a pair of overalls. Mr. Willson then continued, "We got this far with our experiment when it seemed we had gone as far as we could but providence in the name of the choir and a few friends intervened to the extent that we now have waiting outside the tabernacle a touring car for Mr. and Mrs. Jones."

Mr. and Mrs. Jones were delightfully surprised and Mrs. Jones thanked the choir graciously and said, Sunday being her birthday the gift served a double purpose and that it would be her very happiest birthday in thirty years. Mr. Jones started to express himself but was so overcome he could not continue. Later, however, he said, "Choir, this is the biggest thing I've ever known of."

any choir having done and I want you to know I have gotten a spiritual blessing out of this. God's goodness overwhelms me and I'm more determined than ever to live more fully for Him. This goes deep into my heart, friends, and I believe I'm a better man since coming in here tonight. I wish I could make you understand how I feel about it," and his voice breaking he turned and announced a song, the tears streaming down his face.

The railroad men's delegation was the largest that had ever turned out. They poured into the tabernacle by the hundreds as the band played, "Abide With Me." They were given a wonderful ovation. A large banner, P. F. W. and C. R. W. was carried to the front and placed in front of the platform. Superintendent Wardrop was called to the platform, to introduce Frank Simondon, the engineer on the Broadway Limited and an elder in the Church of God. Superintendent Wardrop said:

"Frank Simondon is known to you all. There are three things to remember about him. First, he runs according to the schedule in Matthew V.; second, the foreman's sheet shows his average to be 100; third, he has a reputation of getting over the road with equipment that is not quite up to the standard."

Engineer Simondon Speaks.
 When Engineer Simondon mounted the platform he was given a tremendous ovation. He delivered a short address urging those who had not already given their lives to Christ to do so without further delay.

Special numbers were furnished by the Pennsylvania blacksmith's quartet composed of F. H. Gaylord, J. C. Traxler, C. B. Watterson and C. E. Claud and the Pennsylvania shop quartet composed of J. A. Foster, H. A. Watterson, Val Ewig and H. A. Emerson. One of the features of the meeting was the ringing of the big locomotive bells and the blowing of the whistles as the penitents marched forward to take their stand for Christ.

Dr. Lyon spoke on "The Great Re-fusal." There were a total of 119 decisions at this service.

Meeting for Women.
 While the men were meeting Sunday night in the tabernacle the service for women was held at the First Baptist church, which was filled before 7 o'clock to overflowing. The overflow meeting was held in the Plymouth Congregational church, which was comfortably filled.

The music at the First Baptist church was led by R. G. Upson, of the Lyon party, who also sang a solo. Rev. H. B. Miesler made the plea for the offering for Dr. Lyon. Rev. H. B. Pitzer, the business representative of Dr. Lyon, conducted a testimonial service, in which a number of women told of the help which they had received from the campaign. During the testimonial meeting several enthusiastic women increased their subscription and the women who had not been at the Sunday night meeting came to the service.

New Haven to help finance the campaign, which he and Mr. Upson are to conduct there.

Mrs. Moderwell Assists.
 Mrs. Moderwell came to the platform to assist in the voluntary effort to increase the offering. A total of $120.75 was raised. The effort was a most enthusiastic one and the women received each additional pledge with applause. Rev. Pitzer's address was an earnest plea for sacrifice in every day living and was given the closest attention by the large audience of women.

The overflow meeting in the Plymouth Congregational church was addressed by Mrs. Daisy Douglas Barr and the music was in charge of G. R. Sutton, of the Lyon party.

Boys' Organization.
 Through the efforts of Mr. Jones an organization of the boys of the high school was perfected at the First Presbyterian church at noon Monday for bible study. Prof. Tiner has been selected as instructor.

MANY CASES OF RHEUMATISM NOW

Says We Must Keep Feet Dry, Avoid Exposure and Eat Less Meat.

Stay off the damp ground, avoid exposure, keep feet dry, eat less meat, drink lots of water and above all take a spoonful of salts occasionally to keep down uric acid.

Rheumatism is caused by poisonous toxin, called uric acid, which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine. The pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus riding the blood of this impurity. Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is sold by all druggists and grocers.

MINISTERS MEET FOR CARD DISTRIBUTION

Over 400 Converts Gave No Preference of Church.

The members of the Fort Wayne Ministerial association who cooperated in the Lyon evangelistic meeting Monday morning at 10 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church for the distribution of cards signed by converts and those who renewed their faith during the tabernacle meetings. Over 400 gave no preference of church and these were divided among the pastors in the best known manner.

The place of residence was considered as was also the church to which members of the person's family belonged. Many cards had no addresses on them which made the problem still more difficult, but all those who have signed cards will be looked after and asked to join one of the churches.

In discussing the names of those who have signed cards the ministers state that there are some who never before had given the least thought towards religion while there are others who have always attended church regularly but who have never taken an active part in the affairs of the congregation and who now intend to do some personal work. The members of the association are more than pleased with the outcome of the meetings.

BETHANY CHURCH ACTIVITIES.

The week will be full of activity at Bethany church. Tuesday evening the men of the west end will meet at the church at 7:30 to establish a bible class and Good Fellowship organization. All the men of the west end are invited, no matter whether they are members of this church or that, or no church.

At the same hour the women of North Wayne heights will meet to begin their bible class as suggested by Dr. Lyon.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

When Mixed with Sulphur
It Brings Back Its Lustre
and Abundance.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look Young! Either prepare the tonic at home or get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, and removes dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair; besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You wouldn't use a sponge or scrub brush with it, drawing the through the hair, taking out small strands at a time. Just wash the hair with it, and the hair will grow again.

The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. David Case, 1534 High street.

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings there will be special services at the church at which time there will be given an opportunity for new members to unite with the church.

Thursday evening the Rev. Charles F. Th will speak on the progress of the kingdom of Christ, as it is seen in a World-Wide Vision. He will use the stereopticon to illustrate the conquests of the kingdom. The Rev. Rath is from the Philippine Islands.

Thursday and Friday at 4:15 p. m. the children under fourteen who signed cards during the Lyon meetings will meet at the church and form a class preparatory to church membership, the class to be received into the church at Easter time. Other children who so desire may be in this class.

ASSUMES CHARGE OF CHURCH.

The rabbi delivered a very stirring sermon and especially aroused his hearers by declaring that one of the chief aims of the new congregation would be to establish a school for Hebrew children. He states that the importance of instructing children in a school of Jewish faith can not be overestimated.

Next Sunday is Purim, a Jewish holiday, in which the memory of Queen Esther is honored and services will be held at the synagogue, evening and Sunday morning in Dehm's hall. Permanent officers will also be elected at this time.

The annual banquet of the local association of letter carriers will be held Monday evening in the Odd Fellows' hall at Wayne and Calhoun streets.

Under the auspices of Henry W. Lawton camp, No. 35, United Spanish War Veterans, a patriotic service in honor of Washington's birthday will be held Monday evening in the rooms of Sion S. Bases post, G. A. R., in the Lincoln Life building. All veterans and members of patriotic organizations, including the Woman's Relief corps, Ladies of the G. A. R., Sons of Veterans and both posts of the Grand Army are invited. The principal address will be delivered by ex-Judge Walter Olds. Reminiscences of Andersonville and Confederate prisons will be given by Commander Stephen Chase, of Lawton-Wayne post. Selections will be given by the Camp Lawton string orchestra, a bugler will sound the army calls and the reception of the colors will be an impressive ceremony. A number of war songs will be sung by a male quartet.

There will be observances in a number of local secret societies. Herd No. 1, Benevolent Order of Buffaloes, will have a Washington birthday celebration at the home, 120 West Berry street, next Sunday.

In commemoration of the birthday of George Washington, chapel was held at the Fort Wayne High and Manual Training school Monday morning, at which time the students heard an interesting address by Rev. A. J. Folsom, on the subject, "America a Hundred Years Ago." He pointed out how America, although only in its infancy, was one of the leading powers of the world. He closed by saying "And in tribute to the founder of our nation be true to God and be true to yourself."

The students sang several national hymns, including "America" and "The Star Spangled Banner." In the various grade schools of the city a program appropriate for the occasion was rendered in the afternoon. The programs consisted of musical numbers and recitations and in the upper grades addresses were delivered by one of the teachers or some other person interested in the schools. In the lower grades the teachers read stories to the children about the childhood days of George Washington.

The Pioneers will leave for St. Joe Tuesday evening over the Wabash at 5:45 o'clock for their game at that place.

hour of the wedding was half-past 9 o'clock. The bride has until quite re-

Biscuit company. Mr. Brooks came to Fort Wayne from Oil City, Pa. The bride and groom are taking an eastern

AT THE MAJESTIC.

McIntyre and Heath Come Wednesday.

Next Wednesday brings to the Majestic matinee and night John Cort's magnificent revival of George V. Hobart's rollicking musical success "The Ham Tree," which has furnished those quaint comedians, Mc-Intyre and Heath, the best vehicle they have ever had for the expression of their peculiar, but nevertheless, artistic humor.
Needless to say there is no plot to be taken seriously. In fact, there is nothing serious about it, for it is simply what the "man on the street" would say a "corking good show." The best testimony to its merit was the long run it enjoyed in New York. The large chorus, which is a remarkable one, consists of young girls, ranging from 18 to 22 years old, and young men, not one of them over 22. They were carefully selected for their ability as singers and dancers.

"The Whip," World's Greatest Play, Comes Next Week.

In "The Whip," the Drury Lane melodrama, which will be seen at the Majestic for one week starting next Monday, the actors of Fort Wayne will have an opportunity to see the greatest dramatic sensational of the past decade, running for two seasons in London and one in New York at the Manhattan opera house.

Imagine a big pack of hounds coming down the stage entering their kennels, then think of a stable of fine race horses that are ridden in full view of the audience in another scene. The act in Mme. Tussaud's Taxworks is another thing worth witnessing, but the climax in stage-craft is reached in the great railroad wreck, which is a masterpiece of realism. The story of "The Whip" is as absorbing as any detective or love story ever written and is visually depicted by an immense company of talented players.

AT THE NEW PALACE

Headed by the greatest musical act of its character that ever appeared on a vaudeville stage, the Daph. Dunbar Singing Bell Ringers, the fifth big B. F.
Keith vaudeville program opened at the New Palace this afternoon. Floyd Garrett, the famous Chicago boy soprano is
with this company and will sing the old time gem "Silver Threads Among the Gold." "Fun's Funniest Family" the Three Keatons, father, mother and son, will be seen in their melange of ab-surdities. James Kyrle MacCurdy has a splendid company assisting him in the presentation of his own playlet masterpiece, "Put On Your Old Gray Bonnet."

Wood and Wyde, secured directly from the Majestic theater in Chicago, will replace Harry Bulger with apoplexy in Grand Rapids Saturday night and is in a grave condition in a Grand Rapids hospital. Three boys who can sing are Corbett, Shepard and Donovan; while Gere and Delaney will present their picturesque skatorial novelty and Anthony and Mack will be enjoyed as "The Italian and the Boss." Another series of the B. F. Keith Jaunts and Journeys
complete the bill.

AT THE EMPRESS.

Going to the big circus? Sure, everybody is going. The big circus is now at the Empress theater. There's sawdust everywhere, just like there is in a regular circus, and jumbo peanuts, red lemonade and a real sure menagerie.
The big sensational feature of this circus is the phantom voiced rose girl. She sails over the heads of the people in the audience to the stage and renders a song
as she sails. The McLinn trio present
a novelty acrobatic act; Coin's dogs have an act in which no human being appears on the stage; Carlo's circus brings a great bunch of stuff, while the Three Hastings have a unique ragtime act.
The Enla Lee quartet, composed entirely of young ladies, has a fine line of songs.
Announcer Harvey M. Porter, in the makeup of a regular circus announcer,
makes a big hit himself.

AT THE JEFFERSON.

BLANCHE SWEET ATTAINS FAME.
Beautiful Star Scores Hit With Jefferson Patron in Balance War Drama.

Blanche Sweet, the talented young motion picture actress, whose recent acquisition to the Jesse L. Lasky branch of the Paramount corporation created no end of comment in the theatrical world, scored a veritable triumph at the Jefferson theater in a wonderful performance in "The Balance War."
Sweet's performance was a masterpiece of acting and her portrayal of the character of Blanche Sweet was a triumph.

left no doubt in the onlookers' mind that the Lasky company has used the finest kind of judgment when they recruited this youthful star to the ranks of their splendid organization.

Betty Nansen in "The Celebrated Scandal" Tomorrow.

Betty Nansen, the world famous emotional actress, whose remarkable interpretations of the various Ibsen plays caused critics to pronounce her art
even greater than that of the great Bernhardt, comes to the Jefferson tomorrow, playing a highly emotional role in Echarowsky's noted dramatic success, "The Celebrated Scandal."

AT THE LYRIC.

Charlie Chaplin, the foremost comedian of the screen world, the man who has been greeted with more laughs in the last two years than have been the portion of any actor in the entire world's history is at the Lyric with
Marie Dresser in the comedy masterpiece
"Tillie's Punctured Romance." The production will be there this evening and tomorrow. Chaplin alone is a big enough attraction to drag any man away from his friends but when this prince of clowns is supported by a cast that includes huge Marie Dresser, there's fun galore in store for everyone.

AT THE COLONIAL

THOMAS A. WISE AT COLONIAL.

Genial Actor Creates on Screen Role
He Made Famous on Speaking
Stage.

Tom Wise, the rotund star, whose conquest on the legitimate stage in the well remembered comedy-drama, "The Gentleman from Mississippi," is recalled with a good deal of reminiscence by all playgoers, comes to the Colonial today in a pictured version of the old success, produced under the direction of those master stage geniuses, Shubert and Brady. The success that Wise attained in the oral edition of the play cannot hope to approach that which he is bound to procure in the mimic reproduction, for the greater latitude of the cinema provides for the inclusion of numerous scenes and movements which were necessarily omitted in the stage production.

William Farnum in "The Gilded Fool"
Tomorrow.

William Farnum, the actor, whose
continued successes upon the screen have prompted him to temporarily desert the stage, appears at the Colonial tomorrow in the title of the remarkable dramatic success, "The Gilded Fool."

MME. BERNHARDT HAS RIGHT LEG AMPUTATED

Bordeaux, France, Feb. 22.—The right leg of Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, the famous tragedienne, was amputated today at the St. Augustine hospital at Ar-cachon. The operation, made necessary by an affection of the knee which had caused much suffering for several years, was performed by Prof. De Luce, of the Bordeaux university.

Prof. Pozzi was to have conducted the operation yesterday but he was called to the colors to serve at the Val-de-Grace hospital in Paris and he found it impossible to leave his duties for several days.

Mme. Bernhardt refused to submit to a delay of what she courageously called her release from bondage and it was de-

THE SENTINEL'S LIVE SPORTS CRISP RELIABLE

OHIO BOYS AGAIN DOWN THE CONCORDIA SQUAD

Once more a Concordia-Capitol University basketball game has passed into history, and once more the Ohio boys have gone back home with very fastened to their belts, as a game played Saturday evening at the College gymnasium when they took the Concordians down the line by a score of 48 to 21.

Although the home team came through first on the scoring column, the visitors soon cut loose with some fast team work and accurate shooting, and at the close of the first half had the game scored, for it ended with the score, 30 to 14, with the Buckeye students on the long end. The Concordia players seemed to be playing in hard luck, and while they were trying to locate the baskets, Reuter, Perner and Buss on the scoring end of the visitors were delivering at a great rate. This trio formed one of the clearest scoring machines seen in the city.

Captain Luerssen was the only player of the home team who seemed to be in form and his five goals helped to make the game more interesting. Reuter of the visitors was high scorer with eight field goals to his credit. The game was a typical college contest and was clean and fast all the way through. The lineup and scores:

Concordia (21) Capital (48)
Schiff, right guard, Nispser
Rehm, right field, Reuter
Luerssen, center, Buss
Roessler, left guard, Rickert-Baum

Seconds Win.

In the preliminary the Concordia Seconds defeated the Scratchcats by a score of 37 to 10. The lineups and scores:

Seconds (37) Scratchcats (10)
Henricks, right field, Freistrotter
Keinath, left field, Huber
Dorn, center, Woehner
Umbach, left guard, Hergenrother

The Active Turners will finish this year's schedule next Friday evening, when they will stage an exhibition game with the Boston Bloomer Girls at the Turner hall on West Superior street. This game will prove to be a big attraction, as it will be the first time that a contest was staged between a ladies' and a men's team. The girls put up a clever game and will be sure to show the home team a taste as they have been putting up some good games with the surrounding teams. The Turners expect an easy victory.

SAINTS MEET LYCEUM WITH A NEW LINE UP

Manager Sterling of the St. Mary's basketball team announces that when his team meets the Lyceums next Tuesday evening they will be strengthened by a new line-up, for Tom Harkenrider and a new player, Berghoff, two stars on the team a week ago, have decided to come back and play with the club. Berghoff will play at center and Harkenrider will play a forward position.

The new line-up will be: App and Harkenrider, forwards; Berghoff, center, and Eckrich and Hoffman, guards. Gene, Hoffman and Becker will continue with the team as subs. Manager Sterling in announcing his change in the line-up states that he is not calling in players for the game Tuesday evening, for the two new men in the line-up are bona fide members of the club and will continue to play the remainder of the season.

Although the team as presented by the Saints now looks exceptionally good, the Lyceums who have shown Fort Wayne fans a good brand of ball, expect to continue their winning streak in the city games by starting with a victory over St. Mary's Tuesday evening.

WASHINGTON LAUDED BY SPEAKER CLARK

Washington, Feb. 22.—Speaker Champ Clark, addressing the congregation of a Washington church yesterday, declared that George Washington was "the foremost uninspired mortal in the entire history of the human race."

"Many great men have lived and wrought in this glorious world," he said, "but in completeness of character and in the far-reaching importance and beneficent results of his labors achievements Washington overtops them all."

Washington's greatest service, the speaker thought, was not as commander of the revolutionary army and the first president of the republic, but as president of the constitutional convention, where his commanding influence made formation of the republic possible.

"It always has appeared queer to me," the speaker added, "that artists, historians, poets, preachers and biographers have made so little use of the scene where Washington was on his knees in the snowy woods of Valley Forge praying to God for support for his army and for the salvation of his country."

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 22.—Ralph De Palma, 22 years old, world's greatest driver of racing automobiles, poised his wrench and pliers over his dismantled car as he discussed the part he would play in the coming Vanderbilt cup race, to be run at the world's fair here on Washington's Birthday.

"I will not say I am going to win this race," De Palma stated. "I will say, instead, that I am going to try." And when a race driver says he is going to try he means that only the fate that rules men's destinies can prevent his winning.

"My brother John and I always turn out our car. This is because of the pleasure we derive, and also because—well, if you do a thing yourself you think it is satisfactory. But don't get me wrong; I don't mean that John and I are the only auto fixers in the world. It is a hobby of mine—to go over the car personally before a race."

Ralph De Palma has driven in three Vanderbilt races, in the first of which he took second, and winning the other two, a record unprecedented by any driver for this trophy.

"This race will be hard to win because of the large list of entrants, 33, more than any of the Vanderbilts," said De Palma, "and the cleverest drivers of the game are in it."

"It is a combination of things that wins races; the necessity of being a good driver and mechanic, a good judge of pace, and, above all, keeping your head. But times play the biggest part in the racing game today."

De Palma has driven in twenty road races, winning nine of them and taking fourth place in the Corona, Cal., and the Santa Monica, Cal., road races. He has won more races than any speed king in the game.

De Palma began his racing career in 1908. He first sprang into prominence by defeating E. Oldfield twice at the Readville track meet in Boston in 1908.

In his first race he smashed. This was at Briarcliff, N. Y. De Palma has had three smashes, in each of which he was hurt. At Briarcliff he sustained a wrenched shoulder; at Danbury, Conn., a broken leg, and at Milwaukee, after winning the Vanderbilt and in the last lap of the Grand Prix, he was nearly put out of the racing game forever—two wrenched ribs and two punctures in the abdomen. "Notice how nicely they balanced," remarked De Palma, in telling about it.

But these smashes have not in the least affected the nerve of this plucky little driver, who doesn't seem to know the use of fear.

"There may be such a thing as fear," he said, "but I have never yet run up against it. If I ever do, I suppose then my racing days will be over."

"But I am not a fast driver," De Palma continued. "One hundred and twenty-four miles an hour is the best I ever did. One hundred and ninety, you know, is the record."

READY TO LAUNCH ENLARGED CENTRAL

Magnates Will Return to Fort Wayne March 1 to Complete It.

Things looked rosy for baseball in the reorganized Central league when the owners and prospective owners of the eight clubs adjourned their two-day session Sunday and hiked for home after having arranged to return here March 3 to complete the details of the expanded organization, adopt a schedule, and otherwise prepare to open the gates this spring.

The one result of the meeting that stands out conspicuously was the admission of Wheeling, Youngstown and Erie to the circuit, and the next in importance was the success that attended efforts to keep Terre Haute from jumping the reservation and breaking for the Three-Eye combination, which had at one time apparently completed the seduction of Messrs. Wagner and Beggs, the big medicine men of the Tots. The way was made plain for the Terre Haute owners and they hit the proper trail and will furnish Central League sport for the fans of that city.

The constitution has been revised for the Central and the owners approved President Heilbroner's plans not only for the circuit, but for far-reaching financial policies that will do much for the integrity of the organization as it now stand and for the stability of its members.

Within a few days President Heilbroner and Harry Stahlhofer, owner of Evansville, will go to Terre Haute to confer with Messrs. Wagner and Beggs and others in that city for the purpose of getting that city started on its best foot when the season opens.

Curly Blount and Jim McKeon, representing Youngstown, and George H. O'Neill, representing Erie, showed the readiness of those cities to come into the circuit and their ability to carry their end to the season's close. Claude H. Varnell, the Fort Wayne owner, who also was here with Wheeling's proxy, had convincing evidence that the story town is ready and waiting to restore organized ball there.

Altogether it was a busy session of the magnates and the meeting was one of the most successful the league has ever held.

The Fort Wayne Situation.

Mr. Varnell, the Fort Wayne owner, was the only one of the magnates who remained over, and he will be in Fort Wayne for a day or two while the efforts for organizing and financing local control of the Billiken outfit is proceeding. Bode Myers, the old pennant-pilot of the Fort Wayne team, is still busy with his attempt to obtain the local organization, and he is full of hope that in due time he will succeed. Mr. Varnell is ready to dispose of his Fort Wayne interests when the deal can be made without sinking his own right to some advantage entirely out of sight. He has nothing to say beyond this, but announces that if he does not sell he will keep Fort Wayne on the map. Developments in the local situation are expected within a day or two.

Although St. Paul's folks are sorry to lose the assistance of a star, they are far from being discouraged in the game tonight. They are trusting that history of a year ago will repeat itself and that their team will again be able to pile up another victory over the farmer lads.

Pollock, one of the substitutes, will be called on duty as a regular forward. The new man is a fair basket shooter and may help to make matters very interesting in tonight's contest. The advance sale of seats points to the fact that a large number of fans and rooters will be present.

Yield Yourself Wholly to the Will of God, Urges Dr. Lyon, as Evangelistic Campaign Closes.

THE WILL OF GOD.

Matthew 7:21—"Not every one that saith, unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of My Father who is in heaven."

In these words, Jesus warns His disciples against any superficial conception of His Lordship. It must be in reality and not in seeming profession. Every great life is characterized by a willingness to do God's will. Every stream that has blessed and beautified human life has had its source in the fountain of obedience to God; every stream that has poisoned, polluted and blighted human life has had its source in disobedience to God.

Jesus began His plea for obedience by exhorting His hearers to loyalty to the will of His Father. He then proceeded to teach them that He and the Father are one, and he that had seen Him had also seen the Father. Scientific instruction always endeavors to connect the knowledge to be imparted with something already learned. At the beginning of His ministry, His disciples acknowledged, theoretically at least, the authority of the Father. Starting with this as a basis, Jesus desires to make this acceptance of divine authority more than mere Pharisaism and formalism. It was far easier for them to profess allegiance to the Jehovah who in times past had manifested Himself to His servants and prophets by voice or vision, than it was practically to receive and obey this same Jehovah in the person of His Son. The coming of Jesus was to bring religious profession to an issue. Men were either to do the will of God as it was now declared unto them, or by refusing they would close the door of the divine kingdom against themselves. Their religion was to be a structure built upon the rock or on the sand and whether they should accept or should reject the Master's words would determine it.

Much of the failure to do God's will is due to indecision rather than to disobedience. Religion is positive rather than negative, it consists in doing right rather than in not doing wrong. Neglect rather than antagonism is the greatest sin of our day. To acknowledge definite allegiance to Christ requires energy on the part of the will. Yielding your will to God's will is not a destruction of your will, but it is its exercise in the highest and broadest channel. Discipline consists, not in breaking the will, but in developing and directing it. Doing the will of God is not an imposition. "Thy will be done on earth," he says by whom? By you, by me. The same propensity that would produce a failure in religion would also make a failure of any and every other line of activity; namely, indecision of character.

If you should liken the life to a locomotive, you might liken the intellect to the machinery, the memory to the fuel in the tender, and the emotions to the fire beneath the boiler. But it is the will, who is the engineer in the cab, with his hand upon the lever and the throttle, who will speed the train to its destination, or leave it to back down grade into the ditch.

No man, by a process of reasoning, can think himself into the kingdom of heaven. The journey to salvation might be likened to a trip to Europe; intellect like the railway could take you to the coast, but you must then take the definite step from the railway train to the steamship before you could complete your journey. True, you might take a trip on the cars, up and down the coast, but that would not get you across the ocean. So no process of thinking, simply, will produce the result of conversion. There must be brought into operation the agency of the will. When the Spirit through your conscience shows you what you ought to do, God can do no more for you until with His grace you are willing to do it.

An illustration of the result of indecision is the case of President James Buchanan. Before the civil war, when the confederates were seizing the forts and arsenals he sat in the executive chair repeatedly saying, "I inquire, that he could do nothing to prevent these seizures. Historians have doubtless as yet not given President Buchanan the justice he deserves. He was not at heart disloyal to his country. The difficulty was in a weak and vacillating disposition. If he had had the decision of character of an Andrew Jackson or even of a Theodore Roosevelt, and said as he clinched his fist, "The laws of this country are going to be enforced," we would never have had a civil war.

This same spirit of indecision was the fatal weakness in the life of General George B. McClellan. In many ways he was an ideal soldier and general. He was at West Point, and was warmly beloved by all his troops, who called him "Little Mac." But he halted his army in front of those wooden cannons at Yorktown, when President Lincoln and the whole cabinet were urging him on to capture Richmond. Historians on both sides have agreed that had General McClellan pushed forward with aggressiveness and decision he would have shortened the civil war at least two years.

There are, indeed, two general types of character: one may be called the commercial type, the other the judicial. The banker, for example, is called upon to make many decisions on the spot. The judge, on the other hand, weighs and considers each case with careful deliberation. Yet there is this point of likeness between them: in each instance when the individual is called upon to do the right thing to do, he does it. That is, if he is a true man. No one could be successful in business who took any other course.

An example of one type of character would be such a man as Bacon, the philosopher. He had always used the deductive system of philosophy, the method of Plato and Socrates, but gradually there dawned upon Bacon's mind a better method; the inductive system. He began to present these to the world would be in the face of criticism and ridicule. But when he was convinced what he ought to do he published his discoveries.

An example of the other type of character would be such a man as Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Phillips, "I will go." "But wait," said his friend, "do not answer too quickly, for I want to warn you that the young lady who is to accompany you is a rank abolitionist, and if you are not careful she will try to make an abolitionist of you." "Oh," said Phillips, "I do not fear any danger along that line." But, sure enough, they had scarcely gotten seated in that carriage until the young woman began to pour forth arguments in support of human liberty and in opposition to negro slavery. So eloquently and logically did she speak that at the close of the ride he had become convinced as to what he ought to do, and when he helped her alight from the carriage he grasped the hand of one who afterwards became his wife, and his most able supporter, and she grasped the hand of one who was henceforth to be one of the foremost advocates and champions of human freedom.

You will note the difference between these two characters, Bacon and Phillips. One came to decision slowly, the other one quickly, but there was this element alike in both. In each case when the individual was convinced what he ought to do, he did it. No one can be true to himself and do anything less. Emerson has well said, "Do what you believe is right today, even if it is absolutely contrary to anything you ever have done." Consistency is the characteristic of the small life. Let us rather say, with Oliver Wendell Holmes:

"Build thou more stately mansions, oh, my soul,
While the swift seasons roll,
Leave thy low vaulted past,
Let each new dwelling nobler than the last,
Shut thee from heaven with a dome more vast,
"Till thou at length art free."

This element of decision of character is always evident in a strong life. Many that have great qualities of intellect are forceless and ineffectual on account of the failure of the will. They are ever learning and never able to come to the knowledge of the truth. With them,

"The native hue of resolution
Is sicklied o'er with the pale cast of thought,
And enterprises of great pith and moment
With this regard their currents turn awry,
And lose the name of action."

This apathy and indecision is nowhere so disastrous in its effects as in the domain of the spirit. Every soul that has been great for God, having seen its duty, has done it. Throughout the Scripture every character that flashes and flames far out amidst the darkness like a beacon light has been denoted by this quality. Abram, when he was called to go unto a place that he was to receive for an inheritance, obeyed, not knowing whither he went. Moses, called to go up a high, steep, and perilous mountain, obeyed. Elijah, commanded to go into hiding by the brook Cherith, went and did according to the word of the Lord. John and Andrew and Matthew heard the voice of Jesus and followed Him. These were all men of decision. "Whosoever shall do the will of My Father who is in heaven, he is my brother and sister and mother."

Saul of Tarsus on the Damascus road, saw clearly what he ought to do. It would require him to be absolutely contrary to what he had been. But he did just what any true life must do. He got down from his pride, his prejudice, his rebellion, and answered, "Lord, what shall I do?" It is this definite surrender to Christ that heralds the dawning of a new life within his soul. Every genuine character must be willing to submit to this great law of progress; to do what you know to be right today; even if it is absolutely contrary to everything you ever have done. To you, the risen Lord is now manifesting Himself, claiming your unhesitating and unqualified allegiance. This is the will of the Father, that you believe on Him whom He hath sent, God grant that you may be able to say with Paul, "I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision."

We are now led to consider what are the results that follow the doing of the will of God. First, there comes spiritual knowledge. But some will say, How am I to know what God's will for my life is, or if I knew certainly just what the Lord wanted me to do, I would say very quickly whether or not I would do it. But you will never know what the Lord wants you to do until first you yield your life to do His will. It is not knowledge first, and obedience afterwards; it is obedience first and knowledge afterwards.

A colonel of a regiment does not give directions to everyone in the community, but only to the special body of men who have sworn allegiance to the commander, and promised obedience to his orders. Then he tells them what he wants them to do. So Jesus says, "If any man willeth to do his will, he shall know of the teaching." Here comes in the importance and necessity of faith as a pre-requisite for obedience. It is not until a man has complete confidence in Christ, that he is willing to abandon his life and destiny wholly into His hands.

It might be interposed that Christ Himself taught that it was the will of God, the Father, that they were to do. But He went on to teach that the will of the Father was that they should believe on His Son. That he who had believed the Son had seen the Father also. Doing the will of God, then, is the will of both the Father and the Son. To us the will of the Father is, in an especial sense, the will of Christ, for through the Son is our only avenue of knowledge of the Father. God in Christ is a definite personality to us, One who took upon Himself our nature. And in His life, His teachings, His works, and His death we have the revelation of the Father's will.

In the next place, obedience to the will of God is essential for practical effectiveness. We can liken the universe to a great business corporation with Jesus as the great General Manager. Every employee of men will agree that an employee is unreliable, and simply in the way of the business, if he is not obedient.

No better rule can be given to young men starting out in business than this: Find out what your employer wants you to do, and then do it. In like manner, no better rule for spiritual effectiveness can be given than this: Find out what Jesus Christ, your Lord, wants you to do, and then do it.

Many are willing to do the work of God that are not willing to do the will of God. It is as if the manager of a great firm should say some morning to his stenographer, "I am going out for an hour, you sit down and wait until I return." But after he is gone, the secretary says, "I must earn my wages, I must be at work." Sometimes, it is harder to wait than it is to work. They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength." So he goes to work and writes letters to many correspondents, according to her own ideas, without directions from her employer. After a time replies to these letters begin to come in. She did the work of her employer, but did not do his will. She probably did far more harm than good.

Or, it would be as if you were erecting a great building and employing scores of workmen, and a strange man should come some morning with his hammer and trowel and start to work. He would not consult you, the owner, neither the architect, who had planned and was supervising the construction. The new workman would conclude, in one place, to put in a window; in another place, to build the wall solid. At the close of the day, he comes around for his pay. You say to him, "Who are you?" "Why, I have been working upon this building." "Who employed you and gave you directions?" "No one. I have been directing myself." "What have you done?" "Well, I built a solid wall there." "But I intended to have a door there." "Well, I have put in a window over here." "But I did not want a window here. You have done far more injury than you have benefit. In place of giving you any pay, I should much better sue you for damages."

So, in the church there are many people who will work for the church organization. They will help to build a new building, to buy pulpits, furniture, to get new carpets, or to raise debts. They will help to get up bazaars and suppers and shows, taking part, as it were, in the cooking-stove apostasy of modern religion. They have been working upon this church into a second-class restaurant or theater. They are good, neat, in fact, they will do anything but be religious. Many in these days are mistaking perspiration for inspiration. It is not work, work, work; but will, will, will, that is the key to spiritual success.

The cause of the effectiveness and exaltation of Jesus was not, solely, that He was born of the virgin Mary overshadowed by the Holy Spirit. This might have happened and yet He could have failed to gain the crown. He Himself reveals the secret of His favor with the Father: "I am come down from heaven, not to do Mine own will, but the will of Him that sent Me."

In the second chapter of Philippians, the apostle discloses the successive causes that led to the coronation of Jesus. These are valuable to us because they mark not only the pathway by which He ascended to the throne, but by which we, too, may follow in His footsteps, and share His government and glory. "I have this mind in you, which was also in Christ Jesus: Who, existing in the form of God, counted not the being on an equality with God a thing to be grasped, but emptied Himself, taking the form of a servant, being made in the likeness of men, and being found in fashion as a man, He humbled Himself, becoming obedient even unto death; yea, the death of the cross. Wherefore, also God highly exalted Him and gave unto Him the name which is above every name; that in the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of things in heaven and things on earth and things under the earth and that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father."

The word, "wherefore," points out two ways; first to the causes that precede it, and second to the results that follow it. At the battle of Crecy, King Edward of England, replied to the call of his son, the Black Prince, for reinforcements, "Let the boy win his spurs." The sovereignty of Jesus was won not simply by inheritance, that He was the only begotten of the Father; it was the triumph of subjection and obedience. This truth, of life through death, of exaltation through subjection of authority through obedience, is the greatest paradox of history. Jesus gave as the controlling motive of His earthly life: "I am come down from heaven not to do mine own will, but the will of Him that sent Me." In like manner, He calls us to follow the way of the cross, the way of the victory, the way of Master Himself pursued by a willingness to do the will of the Father.

"To took upon Himself the form of a servant." Literally the apostle says, "He took upon Himself the form of a bond servant; and became obedient, not in a few things, not simply in those things that were easy and pleasant, but His obedience extended to the limit. "He became obedient unto death." This victory was gained, even with Jesus Himself, not without the greatest suffering and struggle. It caused even the blood drops to ooze from the pores, and wrung from His heart the agonizing cry, "My Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from Me!" It ought to be helpful to us to realize that it was here, on this earth, that Jesus fought the battles and won the victory that resulted in His Lordship. So it seems that this world is God's great testing ground. Each of us is being tried, as it were, by fire, to find whether or not we are willing to yield our own preferences and desires, and will to do the will of God.

But the importance of doing the Father's will is still more evident, when we realize that it is a question not only of spiritual effectiveness, but also of salvation itself. "Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of My Father who is in heaven." Nothing else can take the place of obedience. It is not enough to say, "I will do the will of God," but we must actually do it.

I care not what may be your other qualifications; you may have joined every church from the most gorgeous Catholic cathedral to the plain, old-fashioned Quaker meeting house. You may have been baptized with water fresh from the Holy Jordan. You may have performed all of the rites and ceremonies of every religious order. And yet, if you are not willing to do what God wants you to do, and go where He wants you to go; you must, of necessity, be cast away. The important thing about your life is not that you be, or do, this or that; not that you go to or abide in, this place or the other. The important thing about every life, that he does the will of God.

This obedience to divine authority is essential for peace, as well as knowledge and effectiveness and salvation. Physicians say this is an age of hysteria, of nervous prostration. The greatest cause of all this is sin. And what is sin, but disobedience to God? We are trying to go contrary to God's plan, to split, as it were, crosswise of the grain. When God wants us to go one way and we, like Jonah, proceed to go another way, it makes a cross. When our wills are parallel with His will, there is no cross. Jesus said, "My peace I give unto you," and the peace of Christ was caused, primarily, by His willingness to do the will of the Father. When we tune the instrument of our souls in harmony with the heaven, there is no discordant note to rasp and jar and wear and worry.

"Great peace have they that love Thy law." "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on Thee; because he trusteth in Thee." When we bring our lives into conformity to God's eternal purpose, and become laborers together with Him, no longer do we struggle ineffectually against the stream, but prospered by His kindly currents and favoring breezes, with a peaceful voyage, we gain at last the long desired port, which striving alone we would have toiled to reach in vain.

I know not what God has in store for you in the years to come, neither what he has in store for me. I know that it is a very serious thing to put that in your hands, to put that in your hands. It may be an overturning of all of your most cherished plans and prospects. It may take you out of your chosen work, and put you into something that you have said you would not do, that you had fought against doing. For, as a rule, if there is anything in which one says, "No," to God, he will have to say "Yes," before he can gain a great blessing. Yet it has come to this, according to the words of our Master. We must either cease our mere verbal profession, or we must unconditionally abandon ourselves to do His will.

Do you believe in Christ? Do you believe in His infinite wisdom, His infinite power, His infinite love? Do you believe that His plan for your life is a better plan for you than any other? Do you believe that in proportion as you follow this plan, your life, from the eternal standpoint, will be permanently rich and happy and successful? If you do, then you will exclaim with the Psalmist, "I delight to do Thy will, O my God." If, in times of war, men are willing to leave home and family and friends, to leave business and fortune and turn their back on all the world holds dear, to give their time, their health and strength, and even life itself for the sake of their country, what ought lives be willing to do for their great commander, Jesus Christ, and the advancement of the kingdom of God?

During the civil war the citizens of Boston raised the money and equipped a regiment of negro soldiers. They designated that in order to have this regiment have a place and prestige in the army it would be necessary to officer it with white men, and the higher the characters of the officers, the greater would be the rank of the regiment. A committee was chosen to select a colonel. After careful consideration they decided unanimously upon a talented young lawyer of Boston, Ralph Gould Shaw. They waited upon him and expressed to him their request. They said, "Mr. Shaw, we know that if you take this position, it would be a great honor to you, and it would be a great honor to the city of Boston. We are willing to yield our own preferences and desires, and will to do the will of God."

He was engaged to marry a beautiful girl of Boston, and the wedding was hastened. He kissed his young bride goodbye in the church, at the marriage altar, and went out the door and mounted his horse to join his regiment, which was starting south. It was the time when the attack was to be made on Charleston, S. C. Fort Wagner was the chief defense of that city. It stood out on the ocean shore and any attacking column would not be protected by even a stump or a stone. At evening Colonel Shaw stood before his men and said, "Boys, our regiment has been selected to lead in the attack upon Fort Wagner at daybreak." On that next morning, in the gray twilight, you might have seen that regiment, a full thousand strong, marching over that ocean beach when the tide was out, with fixed bayonets, as silently as the snow flakes fall. That great, grim fortress was as silent as a graveyard, until the attacking column got within a few rods of the outer breastworks. Then at a given signal the fortress was literally alive with men. They poured forth such a storm of musketry and grape-shot and canister upon the advancing column, that one-half of that negro regiment fell at the first volley.

Said the general of Massachusetts, who witnessed this scene, "The last I saw of Colonel Shaw was when he sprang upon the parapet and waving his sword, shouted to his men to come on. At the second volley the other half of that black regiment fell like new mown hay before the mow, and the body of Colonel Shaw fell inside the fortification. That night under flag of truce, request was made of the confederate commander of Fort Wagner, asking for the body of Colonel Shaw, explaining that he belonged to one of the first families of New England, and that he had bade his young wife goodbye at the wedding altar. The answer came back, "We have buried the Yankee colonel with his niggers." Said the general, "The sad duty fell to me to go back north and break the news of the death of Colonel Shaw to his young wife. I explained to her that if she insisted, that request would be made of President Davis, of the confederacy of Richmond, to have the body of Colonel Shaw disinterred and sent back to her for burial. "With the spirit of generosity and chivalry for which the south has always been noted," he said, "there is no doubt but what the request will be granted. "No," said the heart-broken young wife, between her sobs, "let him alone. I ask no nobler burial for my beloved husband than that he be buried by the side of those he died to free."

That night after the attack on Fort Wagner, Sergeant Kearney, who had carried the regimental flag that morning in the charge, when the flag had been shot from its staff he had grasped it before it fell and thrust it within his blue blouse. He had been wounded three times. Sometime that night he crawled out from beneath a heap of wounded and dead comrades, and by some miraculous means made his way from the confederate lines and when morning dawned he reached the union camp. The soldiers gathered about him and although weak from the loss of blood, crawling in upon his knees and pulled out from his blouse the flag which was stained with his own blood, and as he held it up he said, with a look of joy and pride, "Boys, he never touched the ground. This flag never touched the ground."

Friends, if a man will do that much for his flag and for his country, what ought you and I to do for Jesus Christ, our Lord and King? If you come out definitely into the Christian life and yield yourself in allegiance to Jesus, it may mean hardship, sacrifice, difficulty, danger and even death, but there will come into your life a peace and joy and power that you have never known before. You have come to the parting of the ways, it is this or nothing. You can no longer be a half-hearted Christian. Say then, from your heart, this morning, "I will go where you want me to go, dear Lord. I will be what you want me to be."

LAFAYETTE TICKET OFFICE IS ROBBED

Thief Enters in Absence of Wabash Agent and Gets Away With $198.

The Wabash ticket office at Lafayette was robbed shortly after 1 o'clock this morning. The night agent, who attended at the ticket windows for trains 1 and 2, which passed that point between 12 and 1 o'clock, locked the cash drawer and the ticket office door after the passenger trains had gone and ran over to the freight office to look after some business. He was gone less than a half hour and upon his return he discovered that the office had been broken into, the cash drawer pried open and relieved of cash amounting to about $198. There was nobody about the premises when the agent returned upon whom suspicion could be laid, nor did he notice any suspicious characters at the depot before and it is not likely that the thief will be discovered. E. L. White is the ticket agent at Lafayette, but he does not attend the night trains and was not at the depot when Nos. 1 and 2 passed through the city.

PENALIZING TRESPASSING.

Central Safety Committee Urges Passage of the Bill.

R. C. Richards, chairman of the Central Safety committee, of Chicago, is appealing to railway men and citizens generally for aid in getting the state to pass laws which penalize trespassing on railways as a means of minimizing accidents. "Why not enact and enforce a law similar to that recommended by the National Association of Railway Commissioners to prevent this slaughter?" he says in his circular. Mr. Richards gives the following statistics: Trespassers killed in last twenty-five years, 113,576; injured, 123,611. Of this number 66 per cent. were people who resided in the vicinity where the accident happened, mostly wage earners. The bill proposed by the National Association of Railway Commissioners reads as follows:

"It shall be unlawful for any unauthorized person to walk, ride or drive upon or along the tracks or within the right of way of any railroad company operating its lines within this state, or to cross such tracks or right of way at any place other than at a public or private crossing; provided, however, that none of the provisions of this act shall apply to employees or licensees of any railroad company, while engaged in the performance of the duties of their employment, or otherwise acting pursuant to the license, nor to any person going in or upon such tracks or right of way to save human life or to protect property, nor to any person going or being upon or in the depot and station grounds of any such railroad company as a passenger or for the purpose of transacting business thereon. It is further provided that any station agent or section foreman in the employ of a railroad company doing business within this state shall have the same power and shall be charged with the same duties in the enforcement of this act as are given to deputy sheriffs by the general laws of the state.

"Any person willfully violating the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof before a court of competent jurisdiction, shall be liable to a fine of not more than one hundred dollars or to imprisonment in the county jail for not more than ninety days, or to both fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court."

THE CO-OPERATIVE STORE.

Question Will Be Settled at Mass Meeting at the Tabernacle.

The men back of the movement to establish a co-operative store in Fort Wayne are jubilant over the prospects for successfully launching the project. At the tabernacle this evening all the committees appointed by the labor unions who favor the plan and hundreds of others interested in the movement will give the matter discussion. At a meeting at Unity hall last night a permanent organization was formed and following representatives elected:

Second division, building trades—Ernest Brokaw, plumbers and pipefitters.

Third division, metal trades—F. J. Schwanz, sheet metal workers No. 383; A. C. Boerger, electrical workers No. 723.

Fourth division, allied printing trades—H. J. Meyers, typographical union; Wm. Proctor, electrotypers and stereotypers.

Fifth division, unclassified—Wm. A. Jackson, bartenders; Harry Rosenberg, textile workers; J. E. Wolf, stationary engineers.

Of the foregoing the following officers were elected: F. J. Schwanz, president; J. E. Wolf, vice president; Harry Rosenberg, secretary; E. C. Spahr, treasurer.

A bond of $50,000 will be required to be furnished by the treasurer. Besides these representatives and officers chairmen for all ten wards of the city were appointed at the meeting last night.

P. R. Bell presided at the meeting at Unity hall and N. S. Patton, of the R. R. T., was the secretary. Among the speakers tonight will be President Charles Fox, of the Indiana Federation of Labor; M. L. Clawson, an Indianapolis attorney, and E. S. Phillips, manager of the Co-operative Department company of Indianapolis.

WAS STRUCK BY NO. 11.

Mystery Connected With Fatality at Van Wert Is Explained.

Robert C. Flemming, coroner of Van Wert county, has rendered a verdict in the case of the death of Carl Pangle, the young farmer killed on the Pennsylvania at Van Wert one night last week. According to the evidence gleaned from the investigation Coroner Flemming found that Pangle was struck by Pennsylvania westbound passenger train, No. 11, while his attention was attracted by a passing freight train on another track and a woman whom he had just left. The woman was Edna Boyd, a colored waiter at the Hotel Marsh, who said that Pangle had just accompanied her to the colored church, where they talked a few minutes, when he left, walking down the tracks and waiting for a freight train to pass. An instant later Edna saw the passenger train approaching, but she went within the church just as it passed, and did not learn of the accident until the next morning. Soon afterwards the mangled body was found where the engine had tossed it.

DIED IN DEPOT LOBBY.

James Polk, of Warsaw, Stricken While En Route Home.

William Polk, aged 82 years, died at

1 o'clock Sunday afternoon, a short time after being carried into the lobby of the Pennsylvania station. He had been visiting at the farm home of John Frey, a short distance out from Monroeville, and with that gentleman and his son, James Polk, the aged man came in the city over the interurban line and went from the station on Main street to the Pennsylvania depot, taking a city car line to Baker street. While walking on the latter street, Mr. Polk was taken suddenly with indigestion and was carried into the depot in an unconscious condition and laid upon one of the seats. Dr. J. C. Wallace was summoned and under his treatment the patient seemed to improve and arrangements were made to remove him to Hope hospital for further treatment. He suffered a sudden relapse, however, and died before the ambulance arrived at the depot. Coroner Edward Kruse, who viewed the remains, ordered the body taken to the Ulmer undertaking establishment, from whence it was taken to Warsaw Sunday evening. Mrs. Polk, the wife of the aged man, died two months ago. He is survived by the following sons: John, James and George Polk, of Warsaw; Marcellus D. Polk, of Milford, and Frank Polk, of Fairmount.

"WE ARE STARVING."

Was the Pathetic Story Covered by a Postage Stamp.

Last week one of the employees of the Bowser works received a postcard from his brother, a soldier in one of the armies engaged in the bloody strife in Europe, which carried a story of suffering from lack of food, in addition to the hardships on the battlefield and the camp. On the space designed for the message the writer stated that he was well and happy. "Here is one of our postage stamps, which I place at the bottom of this card so it cannot be defaced in cancelling the postage above. You can keep it as a souvenir," wrote the soldier. Suspecting some other reason than that of souvenir, the man who received the postcard removed the stamp and there in legible hand but small letters were the words: "We are starving." This information could not have been carried openly on the postcard because of the strict censorship placed upon the mail by the military and postal officials of the country from which it came.

WILL GO AHEAD WITH WORK.

The adoption of a resolution by the Chicago council, giving the Baltimore and Ohio company the right to sell its main property, has settled the difficulty in the way of building the Chicago Union depot and work upon it by several thousand men will be commenced within a few weeks. The building will cost $85,000,000.

LIEUTENANT WHO WED MISS MORSS IS SLAIN

Husband of Former Fort Wayne Girl Killed in Battle.

Friends of Miss Josephine Moras, daughter of the late Hon. Samuel E. Moras, who years ago resided in Fort Wayne and has many friends here, have received from Paris news of the death of Robert Loonen, the young French army lieutenant, who wedded Miss Moras some years ago. The young officer was killed in battle in France on January 8.

Lieut. Loonen was a member of one of the oldest and most aristocratic French families, and the "Chateau Tracy" of his sister, the Baroness De-

Mr. Loonen was a promoter of large business enterprises and at the outbreak of the war he volunteered and had been several times mentioned in general orders for acts of bravery. He was serving on the staff of General Devaille at the time he was killed and died in the general's arms. In writing of his death General Devaille said: "I was with my brave lieutenant when he died and he wished me to write you, dear madame, and his heart held only your image."

Mrs. Loonen and her mother, Mrs. Moras, with other women of American birth residing in Paris, have taken charge of an emergency hospital in Paris and are giving their services free in management and as nurses.

Ailments of Men Happily Overcome

SUCCESSFULLY TRIED BY MANY.

Undoubtedly the following suggestion will work wonders for that great class of men who, through dissipation of their natural strength, find themselves in their "second childhood" long before the threescore and ten allotted to life's pleasures and enjoyments are reached.

It is presumed to be infallible and highly efficient in quickly restoring in "nervous exhaustion," weak vitality, melancholia and the functions.

By taking it at home no man need be the wiser as to another's shortcomings, and expensive fees are avoided.

Lack of poise and equilibrium in men is a constant source of embarrassment even when the public least suspects it. For the benefit of those who want a restoration to full bounding health, and all the happiness accompanying it, let it be stated that the prescription can be had for three grains Cadumene tablets in round tubes, with full directions for use, administered by the Cadumene Company, 1000 Broadway, New York City.

and fled rapidly into the darkness and could not be traced.
It is believed that Webster was then trying to make his way home. It is the theory that he mistook the Wabash for the Nickel Plate track, which latter would have taken him near his home, and pursued his way to the point where he was struck by the train.
Body Identified.
After the body had been found, Coroner E. H. Kruse and the police were notified. Deputy Coroner Robert B. Garman went out to Graceland to view the remains. When he arrived the body had not been identified. The fact that the man was well dressed, that save on the head the body bore no wounds, that his pockets contained no money or other valuables and that a card of paper by which he was identified, was found near the body.

PARK BOARD HOPES TO HAVE SURPLUS

Preparing Schedule of Expenditures for Balance of Year.

Determined to keep well within the limits of its appropriations hoping that at the end of the year to show a surplus so that there will be no further necessity to borrow funds in anticipation of its tax revenues, the park board is having prepared a schedule of its expenses for park improvements and maintenance during the balance of 1916. Secretary Charles J. Stiles, of the board, is now at work on this schedule and he says orders from the board are to "cut or to the bone." This estimate of expenditures will include the cost of everything for which payment must be made out of the park board's funds that are produced by the 8 1/2-cent levy. The expenses of park maintenance, the engineering, assessment and forestry divisions and such betterments as are imperative in the parks will be carefully gone over and wherever possible will be pruned. The tax levy for 1915 will yield $22,126.21 and out of this the board expects to save enough so that it will not be forced next year to make a temporary loan to carry it through until the spring taxes are available. The 1/2-cent for music in the parks will yield $1,889 this year and is not figured in the regular park revenues.

MAJOR GETS BACK ON JOB.

Returns to Indianapolis in Behalf of Local Flood Bill.
Mayor W. J. Hoesy returned to Indianapolis Monday afternoon to renew his labors with the legislature. In behalf of the local flood prevention bill that was drafted under his direction and has been made to apply to Allen and Miami counties. Meanwhile, an effort is proceeding to modify the bill prepared by Governor Ralston's flood prevention commission so that it will meet the views of the governor, who believes the law is in a good many respects too drastic. If the modified bill is seen to have no chance of enactment the mayor and E. W. Shirk, of Peru, will press the local measure. Mayor Hoesy believes there are hostile influences quietly at work against the state commission's bill and he does not entertain sanguine opinions as to its prospect of enactment.

REPAIRING SEWER BREAK.

Under the direction of the board of works repairs were effected Monday afternoon to a break in one of the sewers that drains Lakeside into the Maumee river. No serious consequences had resulted for the damage was slight, but it exposed the drain and even the dike to the damage in the case of a great rise of the Maumee. Before night the dike will be completely repaired and everything made fit and tight.

SWISS FIRE ON AIRSHIP.

Berne, Feb. 22.—Swiss soldiers fired yesterday on an aeroplane, said to have been German, which flew over Bonaf. The machine was struck by nine bullets and the pilot was forced to descend at Ferrette after hovering over the positions at Rechesy.

selves among the legislators. A delegation 500 strong was expected to arrive from Lafayette this afternoon to support the Van Aken bill. Mayor Dugan and Congressman Will R. Wood will head the Lafayette body. Want Bill Amended.
Telegrams from all parts of Indiana flooded the senate today asking the bill proposing shorter hours of work for women be amended before action is taken. It is asked that the bill be changed to make the working day more flexible, by maintaining the present number of hours per week stipulated in the Van Nuys bill at 54, yet increasing the hour limit for each day from nine to ten hours. Saturday afternoon would, under the petitioners' arrangement, be made a half holiday, whereas the present bill proposes that there shall be a straight nine hour day.
Senator Hirsch introduced a resolution petitioning congress to enact a uniform law for women and children workers. The resolution was referred to committee. Senator Ballou, one of the senators to hold out against the adoption of several of the Stoenburg constitutional amendments on the ground that the only proper way of amending the constitution was by a constitutional convention, introduced a bill referring the question of holding a constitutional convention to the voters of the state at the next general election. A similar bill was introduced by Representative Jones in the house.
The machinery for the operations of a workmen's compensation law is provided for in a bill Senator Hirsch introduced, which authorizes persons to form mutual insurance companies.
Senator Lantz introduced a "garnishee bill" which provides that ten per cent. of a person's wages may be withheld on petition of a creditor of such party. In case the worker is disabled, unemployed or sick such wages as he may receive cannot be taken from him.
Kinder's Drug Bill.
Two bills, each providing for more stringent regulations of the use, sale and manufacture of habit forming drugs in this state were introduced in the house. Representative Kinder, of Fort Wayne, proposes in his bill to make it a misdemeanor, punishable upon conviction. Adjudgment of the house at noon prevented action being taken on the Feick resolution calling upon the faculties of Indiana and Purdue to furnish information to the legislature as to the salaries paid professors of the two institutions, as well as to set out other expenses and to specify the bequests the schools have received. The resolution was to be considered this afternoon.

RECOGNIZED BY THE SHERIFF AS THAT OF WEBSTER.

There were two dead wounds on the forehead and another on the back of the head.
The coroner's finding will be that Webster met his death in an accidental manner by being struck by a locomotive. It is believed Webster was walking near enough to the track to be struck by the shoulder of the pilot. He was hard of hearing and had impaired vision and might very easily have been run down without being aware of danger. It is believed that he was struck by the Continental limited on the Wabash, which leaves Fort Wayne at 5:45 a. m.
Case Was Strong One.
Webster, who resided with his two brothers and two sisters, eleven miles east of Fort Wayne, was brought for treatment to the St. Joseph hospital Friday, February 18, by Dr. Steinman, of Monroeville. His case presented some strange phases. He had seemed to be worrying much about something and was much disposed to melancholia, but at no time had he shown any disposition to violence. It had been thought that if placed for a time in the hospital his condition would improve.
Dr. E. J. McOscar, of this city, who was attending Webster at the hospital, says that the man rested well during his first night in the hospital and appeared to be contented. When Dr. McOscar saw him Sunday afternoon he remarked that he was going home, and then it was that the sister who attended him concealed his hat. Webster's mother died a year ago last fall, and since that time he had appeared to suffer much from mental depression.
The remains were brought in to the Pettier morgue this afternoon.

PRISON SENTENCE IS OVER HIS HEAD

William Roberts Must Support Child or Serve His Time.

William Roberts was presented in the circuit court Monday morning for sentence on conviction of having neglected his child. Judge Eggeman imposed a sentence of one to seven years in the state prison and then suspended it on promise given by Roberts that he would provide adequate support for his little one. He told the court he had a job awaiting him and that he would not again be delinquent in his duty to his offspring. Judge Eggeman told him his offense had been flagrant, but that he was willing to give him one more chance to make good. At the time the court warned him that if he should again prove recreant to his paternal obligation nothing would save him from serving his sentence.
Final Report in Big Ditch.
The commissioners of the Willow creek ditch filed their final report in the superior court Monday and it was approved. This large drain begins in southeastern Allen county and comes into northeastern Allen county, draining a wide area. It is one of the big drainage enterprises in northern Indiana.
Notes of the Courts.
The Onassis Automobile company has brought suit in the circuit court against the W. J. Pitten company and Charles A. Bachelor to replevin an automobile, demanding $1,500.
The suit of the Burroughs Adding Machine company vs. Henry A. Wiese has been dismissed from the superior court.

EMPLOYER'S SAFE WAS EASY PICKING

Two Youths Rob It Often
and Then Burglarize
a Saloon.

Fred Crull, aged 18, and Russell Fry, aged 17, were arraigned in the city court, Monday morning, on charges of petit larceny and on their pleas of guilty were certified to the circuit court and went to jail in default of $500 bond each. The lads confessed that repeatedly during the past five or six weeks they had opened and robbed the safe in the Brunswick bowling alleys on East Main street, where they were employed as pin-setters and where they slept at night. John Booth, the proprietor, had long been missing his money in small sums and he suspected the lads. Finally he marked some bills and some coins, notified the police and awaited results. Detective Sergeant Pappert was detailed on the case and he rounded up Crull and Fry, both of whom confessed to him. The lads say they have been "touching" the safe three or four times a week for a long time. Fry said that Crull had learned the combination while surreptitiously watching Booth open the safe, sitting near and pretending to read a newspaper. It was also developed that the boys had entered the Atlas ale house, a saloon in the rear of which the bowling alleys are situated. They took some bar checks and some whisky. Young Fry is a son of Jonas Fry, who is now in the penitentiary for a shocking crime against his 15-year-old daughter, Margaret Fry, a sister of the young safe robber. Crull has been in trouble before for stealing. Like Fry, he is a homeless youngster, his parents being separated.

Little Lads Take Horses.
Bruno Wojciechowski, aged 10, 1921 John street, and Morris Hartman, aged 11, 2019 Hanna street, were certified to the juvenile court and turned over to Probation Officer Wesley I. Work. They were charged with loitering. During two or three days last week they had been taking rigs from the street and having joy rides, abandoning their stolen conveyances when tired of them. Bruno has been in similar trouble before. Detective Sergeants Junk and Spillner traced these trespasses to the two lads and arrested them. Bruno's brother, Frank, aged 15, was sent to the Plainfield school for boys a few days ago for participation in a burglary campaign that was led by George Weber, an older lad who is awaiting trial.

Other City Court Cases.
William Henzinger and George Crizen were fined $5 and costs each for disorderly conduct.

Dennis McLaughlin, charged with being drunk in a railway coach, was put under $100 bond to hold him until February 27, by which time it is expected that friends from the east will be here for him. He was removed from a Pennsylvania train, where his conduct led to the belief that he was insane. He is in a bad condition.

Herb Gaskill and Earl Henschen, two well-dressed young men who live on the northside were arrested on loitering charges by Officer Coulter when they refused to give him information about themselves after he had found them drinking beer in a stairway down town early Sunday morning. They were allowed to go.

Andrew Donnelly, of Baker street, was fined $5 and costs and went back to jail, from which he was released but a few days ago.

George Kane, a window trimmer, was in again for being drunk and was allowed to go on promise to leave the city. He says he has a job awaiting him in Detroit.

Pat Carroll, drunk, drew eleven days; George Webb, another drunk, got $5 and costs and Andy Mueller, a house, was allowed to leave town.

Charles H. Spalding, who has been ill for several days with erysipelas, was reported a little better Monday.

SINKING OF EVELYN NOT LIKELY TO LEAD TO SERIOUS MIX

CLAIM FOR DAMAGES ONLY LIKELY RESULT

Owner of Evelyn Considers Loss of American Ship Due to War Risk He Had Taken.

Washington, Feb. 22.—Secretary Daniels today ordered Commander Walter R. Gherardi, American naval attaché at Berlin, to investigate and make a full report on the destruction of the American steamer Evelyn, which is supposed to have hit a mine off the German coast. So far officials' advice have reported the sinking of the vessel and her cargo but gave no details.

Senator Simmons, one of the framers of the bill which created the war risk bureau, a white house caller today, said he assumed an effort would be made first to establish the responsibility for the sinking of the Evelyn and that if the nationality of the mine could be discovered the government war risk bureau would make efforts to collect damages.

"The war risk bureau has all the powers of a private insurance company," said Senator Simmons. "When the government goes into a business of this kind it loses its official status, but simply because this is a government agency it does not have less right than a private agency of the same kind would have."

Wants Technical Details.

Secretary Daniels explained that his purpose in directing an inquiry after the state department had called upon the ambassadors at London and Berlin for a report was to secure technical information which might not be included in the ambassadors' replies. It was, of course, understood that Commander Gherardi as American attaché at the American embassy at Berlin would be guided entirely by Ambassador Gerard in making his investigation. It was said at the navy department that from indications it would be difficult for the naval officer to secure exact information as to what actually destroyed the Evelyn. Unless Captain Smith or some of the members of the crew actually saw the conning tower or periscope of a submarine, officials say it would not be possible to deny that the Evelyn was sunk by a mine.

The fact that the Evelyn lies at the bottom of the North sea would make it difficult to examine her hull. It was pointed out, however, that German officials might disclose to the American naval officer in confidence the map of their mine field in the vicinity where the Evelyn was sunk.

Thinks It Accidental.

The minister from the Netherlands called at the state department early today to inquire what reports this government had received about the Evelyn. He said he had no official report of the destruction of the vessel. After conferring with Councillor Lansing he expressed the opinion that the sinking apparently must have been entirely accidental.

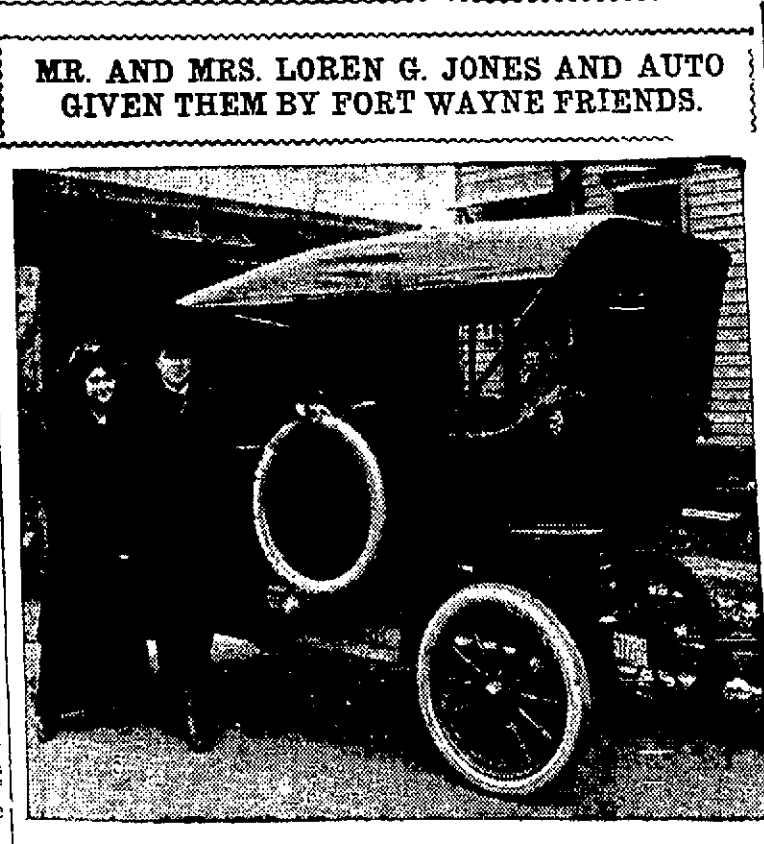

Chairman Stone, of the senate foreign relations committee, said he could see no complications arising from the destruction of the Evelyn.

"An American vessel," said the senator, "ventured into an area known to be mined and unfortunately struck one. So far it is not known what action laid the mine. It is probable that a national claim for damages might be made when all the facts are established, but I cannot see how serious complications could come from the incident."

LOSS DUE TO WAR RISK.

Owners of Evelyn Will Make No Protest to State Department.

New York, Feb. 22.—William J. Harris, of the firm which owned the steamship Evelyn, sunk in the North sea yesterday, said today that his firm would make no protest to the state department, as he considered the loss of the ship due to a war risk which he had taken.

MR. AND MRS. LOREN G. JONES AND AUTO GIVEN THEM BY FORT WAYNE FRIENDS.

One of the novel incidents of the Lyon evangelistic campaign in Fort Wayne developed Saturday evening when Mr. and Mrs. Loren G. SOLON'S NAME ON EACH ROSE

Woman Suffragists Send a Big Floral Offering to Senate.

LADIES LAUD THE PASSAGE OF BILL.

Legislature Too Busy to Permit Observance of Holiday.

Indianapolis, Feb. 22.—To show their appreciation of the senate's action in passing the Maston woman suffrage bill, the women's legislative council today presented a large bunch of roses to the senate, each rose bearing the name of a senator. Mrs. Stimson of Terre Haute, chairman of the council, was loud in her praise today of the senate's hurried action on the bill last week, and said that she had been given assurances that the house would take similar action on the measure.

Just as the negroes have never forgotten the republican party," smilingly said Mrs. Stimson, "likewise will the women of Indiana never forget the splendid action taken by this democratic legislature."

No Liquor Elections.

Mrs. Stimson voiced the same opinion as to the effect of the proposed law on the question of women being permitted to vote in "wet and dry" elections as did legislative reference librarian John A. Lepp. Both said this right under the measure would not be denied to women voters. The bill was referred today to the house committee on judiciary.

The fact that the nation was celebrating the natal day of George Washington did not deter the legislators from their task of lawmaking. Both houses convened at 10 o'clock and no let-up was in sight until late. Because of the rush of business the customary patriotic speeches were dispensed with. The house passed seven bills and received six others while the upper house disposed of two senate bills and received ten new measures.

Rival Factions There.

Washington's birthday enabled persons in Bloomington and Lafayette, interested in the Van Auker bill to move Indiana university to Lafayette to invade the city early in the day. A crowd estimated at between 300 and 400 came to this city from Bloomington to attend the public hearing this afternoon on the bill before the senate finance committee, and busied themselves.

TRAIN HITS INSANE MAN

Warren B. Webster Killed by Wabash Locomotive Near Grabill.

FLED SUNDAY FROM A HOSPITAL HERE

Body Found by Foreigner in Ditch Near Track East of Grabill.

Warren B. Webster, aged 51, a well known farmer residing in Jefferson township, eleven miles east of Fort Wayne, was killed by a Wabash train at a point a mile east of the town of Grabill at some time early Monday morning, after he had fled from St. Joseph hospital in this city, where he had been undergoing treatment for dementia.

The body was found just after daylight by a foreigner who was recently released from jail here and was walking on the Wabash railroad. The remains were lying in a ditch beside the track and on the head were several injuries that had caused death.

From the nature of the wounds and other suspicious circumstances, it was at first thought there had been foul play, but subsequent inquiry dissipated all theories of this sort.

Fled From Hospital.

Webster, who was brought to the hospital last week for treatment for his mental condition, slipped away from that institution about 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. He had during the day told his nurse several times that he was going home, and she concealed his hat and shoes in the bushes outside the hospital. When he found an opportunity to slip out of the hospital Webster fled bareheaded. Soon he was missed and the police department and the sheriff's office were notified to look out for him.

No trace could be gained of the fugitive here in the city and late in the afternoon Sheriff A. C. Gladieux, who was well acquainted with him, took his car and went searching in the region of Webster's home. None of his relatives or other friends had seen him.

Seen by Two Officers.

Between 3:30 and 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon Sheriff Gladieux while walking north on Calhoun street, saw Webster approaching from the west on Main street. The men exchanged greetings, but Sheriff Gladieux, not at that time knowing Webster had been in the hospital and had but then just fled from the institution, paid no special attention to him. About 4:30 Deputy Sheriff D. G. Mills, who had been out motoring in the country with a friend, passed Webster on the Lincoln highway near the Maumee brick and tile company's plant, east of the city. Deputy Mills did not at that time know Webster was a fugitive.

Called at Restaurant.

Sheriff Gladieux returned through New Haven about 8 o'clock Sunday evening and stopped at O'Connell's restaurant and inquired there of a number of men if they had seen the fugitive.

Sheriff Gladieux received word Monday that shortly after he had left Allerton's restaurant, Sunday evening, a hatless man had appeared at the back door of that place and knocked. When the door was opened and inquiry made as to what was wanted, the man turned back.

HUNDREDS GATHER TO SAY GOOD-BYE

Farewell Message Delivered by Dr. M. H. Lyon in Pennsylvania Station

"Even though you forget me don't forget the Lord, Jesus Christ." Thus spoke Dr. Milford H. Lyon as he made his way through the crowd that filled the large waiting room of the Pennsylvania station to his capacity, gathered there to bid him good-bye.

Standing on the back of one of the seats he delivered his farewell address, taking for his subject, "The Inner Circle." He spoke of the circle of faith, service, fellowship, privilege, but greater than all these is the inner circle—the circle of love.

"If you are once in love with the Lord, Jesus Christ, you have something that is real," he said in closing. "Then he shook hands with all he could find with the greatest difficulty he made his way to his train. Seeking a last glimpse at the evangelist the crowd followed him, waving good-bye as the train pulled out.

With a total of 4,896 decisions and an offering for Dr. Lyon amounting to $5,761.07, probably the greatest tabernacle meeting ever held in the state of Indiana, came to a close Sunday night after a campaign of seven weeks.

May Continue Contributions.

People are privileged to continue their offerings until Thursday, leaving them with C. H. Worden at the First National bank, and it is confidently expected that after all contributions have been made, in excess of $9,000 will have been given to Dr. Lyon for his splendid services in Fort Wayne. Out of this amount the evangelist must pay half of the salaries of his assistants, amounting to $1,300. The great good resulting from the awakenings cannot be told in figures. There has been a general religious awakening both in and out of the churches. New interest has been aroused and Fort Wayne will be much the better city morally and spiritually as a result of the efforts of Dr. Lyon and his most efficient assistants. The effect of this revival will be felt in the years to come.

Evangelist Exhausted.

The meeting Sunday night at the tabernacle closed with "God Be With You Until We Meet Again." At his own request no one rushed forward to shake hands with Dr. Lyon, telling him good-bye. Almost utterly exhausted he left the platform waving at the big audience as he descended the steps for the last time. He had closed the greatest revival in his career as an evangelist and after a week's rest at his home at Winona Lake will begin another campaign at Tiffin, Ohio, and after he finishes there he will go to Terre Haute to begin a campaign even more strenuous. It is believed that the one he has conducted in Fort Wayne.

Members of his party will spend the week as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Jones will drive through to Tiffin in their own automobile and make a tour of that section of Ohio; Rev. H. H. Pitzer, his own home in Lansing, Mich., returned to begin a series of meetings of his own next Sunday at New Haven; Rev. Ray G. Upson left at noon for his home at Winona Lake and will return home to assist Mr. Pitzer; Mrs. Daisy Barr has gone to her home in Fairmount and Guy Sutton will spend the week with relatives at Yorktown, Ind.

Rev. Folsom Makes Plea.

Rev. Arthur J. Folsom made the plea for the offering at the morning and evening services at the tabernacle. S. F. Bowser, chairman of the offering committee, urged the audience to be liberal.

When Dr. Lyon entered the building he was given a wonderful ovation, the demonstration continuing for several minutes. After mounting to the platform he bowed and took a seat with his daughter behind the piano.

The Closed Door.

The evangelist spoke Sunday night to the men on "The Closed Door," the same sermon that he delivered to the women at the afternoon service, taking his text from Matthew xxv:10: "And the door was shut."

"It is one of the most amazing facts of life that men and women have so little thought or concern about the affairs of eternity," he said. "About

Germans Claim Additional Capture of Russians in East Prussia.

SAY TENTH ARMY WAS WIPED OUT

Berlin Says Recent Losses of Allies Have Been Very Heavy.

Today's War News Given in Summary

The German war office announced today that the Russian tenth army was "considered as having been destroyed" as a result of the recent German victory in East Prussia. It is stated that more than 100,000 Russians, including seven generals, were captured, and that the pursuit of the retreating forces has now been brought to an end. The Russian military authorities, however, acknowledge no such losses. They admit that one army corps was cut to pieces, but assert the main force extricated itself.

In the Vosges further German victories are claimed, including capture of another town. The German war office also states that the losses of the allies in recent fighting in the Champagne were "extraordinarily high."

The French war office announcement says that there have been no new developments of importance on the western front.

The Berlin report of the sinking of a British transport lacks confirmation from any other source.

Berlin, Feb. 22.—The German official statement issued today announces that the captures in the battle of the Masurian lakes district of East Prussia have been increased to seven generals and more than 100,000 men. The pieces of cannon taken numbered 150.

The text of the statement reads: "In the western theater: Another hostile trench was taken by us yesterday to the east of Ypres (in Belgium). The enemy's counter attacks on the captured position remained unsuccessful.

In the Champagne district there was comparatively quiet yesterday. The number of prisoners taken by us during the last battles in this region has been increased to fifteen officers and more than 1,000 men. The sanguinary losses of the enemy have been extraordinarily high.

"The enemy made an unsuccessful attack on our positions to the east of Verdun during the night.

CAPTURE GERMAN TRENCH.

French Report Indicates Little Important Fighting.

Paris, Feb. 22.—The official communication given out today by the French war department says: "There is nothing important to add to the official communication issued last night. Between the Argonne and the Meuse, at the outskirts of the wood of Cheppy, we carried out one of the enemy's trenches and extended our positions.

"At Les Eparges we won some ground at one point and fell back slightly at another.

"Infantry fighting in which the enemy had three regiments engaged, occurred in Alsace on both banks of the Fecht. Our advance posts fell back on our main line, which we are strongly occupying. The enemy attacked in several deep formations and as a result he suffered heavy losses.

BOARD OF TRADE MEN BLOCK PRICE PROBE

Chicago Grain Broker's Refuse to Submit Books and Records.

Chicago, Feb. 22.—Grain brokers engaged in business on the Chicago board of trade have refused to submit their books or records to government officials investigating the high prices of wheat and flour, it was learned today. As a result it was declared the inquiry, which centers in the causes for the advanced price of bread, is at a standstill.

Charles F. Cline, the United States district attorney, has reported to Attorney General Gregory that the brokers in declining to submit their books, contended that they are under express obligations not to divulge the transactions of customers. The brokers asserted, it was said, that the same humanity from disclosure applies to their relations to their customers as to the relations between attorney and client. The district attorney sought access to the books of the brokers to ascertain whether the price of wheat was due to the actual demand for grain abroad or to speculation. In addition he is seeking to discover whether there is any conspiracy of the big operators to corral the wheat market.

MAKE PREPARATIONS FOR BIG AUTO SHOW

Work was started Monday in rearranging the interior of the big tabernacle at Main and Ewing street for the automobile show, which opens there Wednesday. On Tuesday all the seats are to be taken out and everything made in readiness for the opening day of the big show, which is to be given under the auspices of the Fort Wayne Automobile Dealers' association.

Course and Weather Unsatisfactory at San Francisco.

San Francisco, Feb. 22.—On account of the unsatisfactory condition of the course and threatening weather the Vanderbilt cup race was postponed today until one week from Saturday. The drivers made one exhibition round of the course for the benefit of the spectators.

POPE ENGAGED IN NEW PEACE EFFORT

Rome, Feb. 22.—Reports received by the secretary of state of the Vatican, says the Giornale d'Italia, show that Germany, although maintaining an excellent military position feels seriously the consequences of the war and therefore has modified materially her views on peace conditions to be imposed.

The paper adds: "The pontiff considers such a condition of affairs lends itself favorably to diplomatic steps. He is reported again to have interpellated Emperor William to know on what conditions Germany would be disposed to negotiate peace, observing that in any case the military honor of Germany is safe."

FUNERAL RITES FOR DR. L. A. WORTH

Funeral rites for Dr. L. A. Worth, who ended his life last Friday evening in his office in the Lan building, corner Washington and Calhoun streets, were held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the family residence, 236 West Washington street. More than seven hundred persons who were unable to gain admittance in the house lined the sidewalks for a half block each way. Reverend Samuel Wagenhals had charge of the services at the house.

Interment was made at Lindenwood and the procession from the house to the cemetery was headed by the B. P. O. E. band. More than 250 members of the Elks lodge participated in the march.

THIEF SENDS TROUSERS BACK AFTER MANY YEARS.

Elkhart, Ind., Feb. 22.—J. S. Banniman, of this city, lost a pair of trousers by theft twenty-nine years ago. Today they were returned to him by parcel post by the conscientious thief, whose identity remains unknown even to Mr. Banniman.

Originally black, the trousers had faded to a greenish hue, but otherwise were in as good condition as when bought nearly three decades ago. Mr. Banniman took them to a tailor for pressing and expects to get his money's worth out of them now.

HE FIRED SHOT WHICH KILLED GEN. JOHNSTON

Princeton, Ind., Feb. 22.—John Willman, who in his life time declared he fired the shot which killed the Confederate general, Albert Sidney Johnston, at the battle of Shiloh, died Sunday at his home in Mount Carmel, Ill., near here.

Willman, a member of the 48th Illinois regiment, fired at a mounted officer within the Confederate lines and saw the man sway in his saddle. Later he learned that the bullet had found a mark in the body of the famous Confederate general, who bled to death.

MAY NOW PUT BAN ON COTTON TO GERMANY

London, Feb. 22.—(5 p. m.)—The British government may reconsider its ruling permitting the entrance of cotton into Germany. This was intimated in the house of commons this afternoon by Harold J. Tennant, under secretary for war. Mr. Tennant stated that when the decision was reached not to make cotton contraband, the government believed that the requirements of Germany were already satisfied, but he added, "this attitude must be revised from time to time."

NIGHT BATTLE WITH INDIANS

Possess of Utah Whites in Sharp Clashes With Piute Warriors.

BOTH SIDES GET REINFORCEMENTS

Attempt to Arrest Indian on Murder Charge Results in Warfare.

Denver, Col., Feb. 22.—After a battle throughout the night near Bluff, Utah, between a band of 52 Piute Indians and a posse of white men led by United States Marshal Aquila Nebeker, hands of citizens from various towns in Utah were preparing today to go to the assistance of the whites. The Indians also have been reinforced.

Two Indians and one white man have been killed; two Indians and a white man wounded and two Indians captured. One of those killed was an Indian mailman who was said to have run into the line of battle. The fight started early Sunday morning when the whites, after several days' journey by wagon from Cortez, Colo., arrived at the camp of Tse Ne Gat, a Piute Indian leader whose arrest on a charge of murder was sought. Marshal Nebeker reported.

From Grayson, Utah, the following report of the battle was received last night from Marshal Nebeker:

"Posse of 26 men led by sheriff of Dolores county, Col., ex-Sheriff Jingles, of Montezuma county, Col., and Sheriff Pepperson, of San Juan county, Utah, left here last night to surprise and capture the Indians. At break of day this morning the posse surrounded the camp

in which the Indians wanted were located. The Indians seemed to be expecting the posse and opened fire. C. A. Akia, of Dolores, Colo., was killed in the beginning of the fight. An Indian called Jack's Brother was killed and an Indian girl who ran between the posse and the Indians was killed. The posse captured Indians named Howe and Jack. Both Indians are Chiricahua warriors and it is said other Indians will try to recapture them.

Both Get Reinforcements. A band of Indians, known as Pose's band, came to their relief from the south. Pose's band wounded Jos. C. Cordova, of Cortez, one of our men who was placed to guard the southern approach. A posse of fifteen, all this town could arm, has been sent from here to assist the posse at Bluff. A posse of twenty-nine is on the road from Monticello, Utah, to assist those at Bluff. Communication between here and Bluff has been broken all day and has just been restored. The fighting continues fiercely.

Tse Ne Gat, who is also known as Everett Hatch, is charged with the murder last March of a Mexican. The band of which Tse Ne Gat is the leader is known as an uncontrollable tribe, which has on many occasions given settlers of southeastern Utah much trouble.

Lorenzo D. Creek, special Indian agent, arrived at Moab, Utah, last night en route to Bluff with instructions for Marshal Nebeker. A call for volunteers from Moab resulted in the mobilizing of twenty men who were prepared today to leave for the scene. From Grayson, fifteen men responded. An appeal for assistance to the Indian agency at Shiprock, New Mexico, also has been made. The posse, which pursued Tse Ne Gat was organized at Cortez, Colo., several days ago by Marshal Nebeker, upon a request from District Attorney Tedrow, of Denver, for the arrest of the Indian. The trail of the fugitive led the posse through a remote, mountainous region, through the state line into Utah. By day and night marching the posse drew near the camp of the Indians. Instantly the Indians opened fire. Numerically in the minority, the posse held its own. From a southern pass through the rocks the posse came early in the morning to the assistance of the whites. Joseph Cordova, a member of the posse, who had been placed to guard the pass, was shot down. His condition was not reported.

ries of meetings. You are convinced what you ought to do. This door of opportunity is turning on its hinges. Sooner than you think, the door of your privilege will be closed, and when it is once shut it will be shut forever. Enter the door while you may. Do it now."

Total of 374 Decisions. And they did. It took very little persuasion for men from all parts of the big building marched bravely forward a dozen at a time to take a stand for Christ. It was the most wonderful demonstration that has ever been seen in Fort Wayne. Men who have been under conviction almost since the meetings began surrendered their lives to Christ. Even after the evangelist was preparing to leave the platform and go home they kept coming. There was a total of 374 decisions at Sunday's services.

In addressing those who had gone forward and the others in the audience who had taken the stand during the meetings Dr. Lyon urged them to get in a Bible class and study the word of God. He declared that the saved man is the saving man.

"Don't be a church tramp," he said. "Have a church home and don't wait for the pastor to hunt you up. Have a church home, however, in a church that believes in revival. If you have a pastor who doesn't believe in soul winning turn that pastor out."

Sunday Afternoon. Rev. C. Claud Travis, pastor of the Wayne Street M. E. church, made the plea for the offering at the afternoon service for women. Although the meeting was not to begin until 3 o'clock the tabernacle was packed with women long before 2 o'clock, hundreds of them taking their dinner with them.

Dr. Lyon declared that people have heard much concerning the husbandry of God, but too little of the husbandry of Jesus Christ. He said that the devil is the prince of the world and not Jesus Christ.

"The scourge of indifference which has been sweeping over Fort Wayne is largely to be laid at the doors of the society women," he exclaimed. At the afternoon meeting men crowded around the doors to listen to the evangelist. Although the meeting was for women, when the invitation was given the response was large, especially of older women. The opening prayer was offered by Mrs. Joseph Thompson, mother of Mrs. Loren G. Jones.

At the close of the meeting Sunday night Mr. Jones announced that a big chorus was to be organized in Fort Wayne and those desiring to join should notify Clint Wilson. The Bible study books on Acts which will be studied by the various classes in the neighborhoods, the high school and among the business girls, may be secured at the Y. W. C. A. this week. The price of the book is fifteen cents.

Follow Up Services. Follow up services are to be held in a majority of the churches this week in charge of the pastors.

Five thousand copies of the souvenir number of the Silent Evangel have been sold. The magazines will be on sale this week at the various churches. Afternoon Meeting for Men. Hundreds of men were turned away from the First Baptist church to hear Mrs. Daisy Barr and it became necessary to hold an overflow meeting in the Plymouth Congregational church. While the thank offering was being taken for Dr. Lyon, Mrs. Barr addressed the men at the Congregational church, which was also filled almost to its full capacity.

Mrs. Barr was given a most enthusiastic greeting as she entered the Baptist church, the men waving their handkerchiefs and clapping their hands for several minutes. Rev. Tomes had charge of the thank offering, a goodly sum being contributed.

The music was led by Rev. Upson, of the party, who seems capable of serving in almost any capacity. He can sing, preach, play the piano, direct choruses and look after the newspaper man, which in itself is one man's job. Though Mr. Upson does not come in contact with the public perhaps as much as the other members of the party, he is thoroughly alive and is always on the job. One of the features of the song service was a selection by the tabernacle quartet.

Mrs. Barr was introduced by Rev. Snashall, who took occasion to praise the work of the women in this country and to urge the early adoption of woman's suffrage.

Religion and Business. Mrs. Barr spoke on the subject of "Religion and Business," and before she had finished nearly every man in the big audience was wiping the tears from his eyes. She said she had but one criticism for the people of Fort Wayne and that was that they were too clamish. They need to get acquainted with each other. She urged the ministers to mingle more with the common people and to get in closer touch with the activities of men.

"Speed the day when Jesus Christ will be known in every working man's heart," she urged.

Mrs. Barr said there were three ways in making men good: (1) Make them good by legislation; (2) be good for them; and (3) to help them to be good for themselves. Prayer was offered by Rev. Shirley. Baptismal services were held before the regular meeting began, several being publicly cheered.

Sunday Morning. Rev. A. J. Folsom made the appeal for the offering to Dr. M. H. Lyon at the morning service Sunday at the tabernacle. He spoke of the number of conversions and reconciliations, and said that there had been many family altars established and that many a father was sweeter and a mother less "grouchy" because of the Lyon meetings.

"We can not," said Mr. Folsom, "measure the good which the meetings of Dr. Lyon have accomplished. We are in the midst of a changed sentiment—saints are rejoicing and sinners are screaming for rage."

The offering was taken under the direction of Rev. Folsom and S. F. Rowser, chairman of the special committee appointed for the raising of the offering for Dr. Lyon.

Dr. Lyon was not present in the tabernacle during the time the offering was being taken, but arrived at the close of the offering. In his introductory remarks Dr. Lyon took occasion to thank the people for their offering, and said that "Billy" Sunday had told him that he was a fool for coming to Fort Wayne. The evangelist declared he had done the best he could and tried to keep sweet.

"I can't," he said, "hit the devil as hard as I ought to hit him."

In the course of his morning sermon Dr. Lyon said that the reason he had not been more popular in Fort Wayne was because he did not enter to the gang and the high-toned society element.

The evangelist's declaration during the morning sermon that he would like to run for mayor of Fort Wayne was greeted with continued applause.

Saturday Night. A rousing meeting was the service at the tabernacle Saturday evening. During the preliminaries Clint Wilson, chairman of the music committee, ascended the platform and said that in behalf of the choir and friends of Director and Mrs. Jones he was there to express deep regret that they were soon to leave the city. Mr. Wilson further said in part, "We have come to do more than appreciate and admire the ability of Mr. and Mrs. Jones and as we consider how soon they are to go from our midst we realize we are losing two dear friends whom we have come to love. As an evidence of this affection we have tried to find something to give them which they might use in their work for God and out of which they might get personal pleasure as well."

Mr. Wilson then invited Mr. and Mrs. Jones upon the platform and unfolding some bundles weighted them down with tools, an auto horn out of which Mr. Jones got a boy's real fur, Mrs. Jones was bundled into an auto coat and Mr. Jones bidden to don a pair of overalls. Mr. Wilson then continued, "We got this far with our experiment when it seemed we had gone as far as we could but providence in the name of the choir and a few friends intervened to the extent that we now have waiting outside the tabernacle a touring car for Mr. and Mrs. Jones."

Mr. and Mrs. Jones were delightfully surprised and Mrs. Jones thanked the choir graciously and said, Sunday being her birthday the gift served a double purpose and that it would be her very happiest birthday in thirty years. Mrs. Jones started to express herself but was so overcome he could not continue. Later, however, he said, "Choir, this is the biggest thing I've ever known of."

While the men were meeting Sunday night in the tabernacle the service for women was held at the First Baptist church, which was filled before 7 o'clock to overflowing. The overflow meeting was held in the Plymouth Congregational church, which was comfortably filled.

The music at the First Baptist church was led by R. G. Upson, of the Lyon party, who also sang a solo. Rev. H. B. Master made the plea for the offering for Dr. Lyon. Rev. H. H. Pitzer, the business representative of Dr. Lyon, conducted a testimonial service, in which a number of women told of the help which they had received from the campaign. During the testimonial meeting several enthusiastic women increased their subscription and the ushers were called back from the Sunday school room, where they were counting the offering, to continue the work in raising money. Rev. H. H. Pitzer spoke on "Crosses on the Traveler's Way." Rev. Pitzer invited all the women to come to any choir having done and I want you to know I have gotten a spiritual blessing out of this. God's goodness overwhelms me and I'm more determined than ever to live more fully for Him. This goes deep into my heart, friends, and I believe I'm a better man since coming in here tonight. I wish I could make you understand how I feel about it, and his voice breaking he turned and announced a song, the tears streaming down his face.

The railroad men's delegation was the largest that had ever turned out. They poured into the tabernacle by the hundreds as the band played, "Abide With Me." They were given a wonderful ovation. A large banner, P. F. W. and C. R. W. was carried to the front and placed in front of the platform. Superintendent Wardrop was called to the platform, to introduce Frank Simondon, the engineer on the Broadway Limited and an elder in the Church of God. Superintendent Wardrop said:

"Frank Simondon is known to you all. There are three things to remember about him. First, he runs according to the schedule in Matthew V.; second, the foreman's sheet shows his average to be 100; third, he has a reputation of getting over the road with equipment that is not quite up to the standard."

Engineer Simondon Speaks. When Engineer Simondon mounted the platform he was given a tremendous ovation. He delivered a short address urging those who had not already given their lives to Christ to do so without further delay.

Special numbers were furnished by the Pennsylvania blacksmith's quartet composed of F. H. Gaylord, J. C. Truxler, C. B. Watterson and C. E. Claud and the Pennsylvania shop quartet composed of J. A. Foster, H. A. Watterson, Val Ewig and H. A. Emmerson. One of the features of the meeting was the ringing of the big locomotive bells and the blowing of the whistles as the penitents marched forward to take their stand for Christ.

Dr. Lyon spoke on "The Great Refusal." There were a total of 119 decisions at this service.

Meeting for Women. While the men were meeting Sunday night in the tabernacle the service for women was held at the First Baptist church, which was filled before 7 o'clock to overflowing. The overflow meeting was held in the Plymouth Congregational church, which was comfortably filled.

The music at the First Baptist church was led by R. G. Upson, of the Lyon party, who also sang a solo. Rev. H. B. Master made the plea for the offering for Dr. Lyon. Rev. H. H. Pitzer, the business representative of Dr. Lyon, conducted a testimonial service, in which a number of women told of the help which they had received from the campaign. During the testimonial meeting several enthusiastic women increased their subscription and the ushers were called back from the Sunday school room, where they were counting the offering, to continue the work in raising money. Rev. H. H. Pitzer spoke on "Crosses on the Traveler's Way." Rev. Pitzer invited all the women to come to

New Haven to help finance the campaign, which he and Mr. Upson are to conduct there.

Mrs. Modewell Assists. Mrs. Modewell came to the platform to assist in the voluntary effort to increase the offering. A total of $120.75 was raised. The effort was a most enthusiastic one and the women received each additional pledge with applause. Rev. Pitzer's address was an earnest plea for sacrifice in every day living and was given the closest attention by the large audience of women.

The overflow meeting in the Plymouth Congregational church was addressed by Mrs. Daisy Douglas Barr and the music was in charge of G. R. Sutton, of the Lyon party.

Boys' Organization. Through the efforts of Mr. Jones an organization of the boys of the high school was perfected at the First Presbyterian church at noon Monday for bible study. Prof. Tiner has been selected as instructor.

CASCARETS FOR YOUR BOWELS IF HEADACHY, SICK

Tonight! Clean your bowels and end Headaches, Colds, Sour Stomach.

Get a 10-cent box. Put aside just once—the Salts, Pills, Castor Oil or Purgative Waters which merely force a passageway through the bowels, but do not thoroughly cleanse, freshen and purify these drainage organs, and have no effect whatever upon the liver and stomach. A Cascaret to-night will make you feel great by morning. They work while you sleep—never gripe, sicken, and cost only 10 cents a box from your druggist. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never have Headache, Bilelessness, Severe Colds, Indigestion, Sour Stomach or Constipated Bowels. Cascarets belong in every household. Children just love to take them.

Mr. Bardelmeier had been in poor health for several years and his death was due to infirmities of age and several complications. During the past few years of his life his daughter, Mrs. Wileman, had been caring for him. Mr. Bardelmeier was born in Germany on October 7, 1827. CITY VACCINATES 270.

Hartford City, Ind., Feb. 22.—There were 270 free vaccinations at the expense of Hartford City during the recent smallpox epidemic, according to the figures submitted at the meeting of the city council Friday evening. This number includes all who classed themselves as unable to pay for the work. Judging from this number, it can easily be seen what a large per cent. of the residents of Hartford City were vaccinated during the time, mostly, of course, at their own expense.

CUT THIS OUT

OLD ENGLISH RECIPE FOR CATARRH OF THE DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES.

If you know someone who is troubled with head noises, or Catarrh of the Deafness, cut out this formula and hand it to them, and you will have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. Recent experiments have proved conclusively that Catarrh of the Deafness, head noises, etc., were the direct cause of constitutional disease, and that salves, sprays, inhalers, etc., merely temporize with the complaint and seldom, if ever, effect a permanent cure. This being so, much time and money has been spent of late by a noted specialist in perfecting a pure, gentle, yet effective tonic that would quickly dispel all traces of the catarrh from the system. The prescription which was eventually formulated, which has aroused the belief that catarrh of the deafness and head noises will soon be extinct, is given below in understandable form, so that any one can treat themselves in their own home at little expense.

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmitin (Double Strength), about 75c worth. Take this home and add to it 1 pint of hot water and 4 oz. of granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. Parmitin is used in this way not only to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling in the Eustachian tubes, and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drum, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear. Every person who has catarrh in any form should give this recipe a trial and free themselves from this destructive disease. J.A.D.

It contains no opium or other narcotic, and may be given to a child as confidently as to an adult. For sale by all dealers. —Adv.

TWO YOUNG WOMEN KILLED BY A CAR Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 22.—Miss Margaret Bacon, 50, and her sister, Jacova, 56, of Maysville, Ky., were killed here yesterday when they stepped in front of an interurban car. The women were on their way to attend church services. It is believed the Misses Bacon mistook the interurban for a city car and tried to cross in front of it in order to signal the motorman to stop. The women had been visiting their sister, Mrs. W. Henry Holton. Charles L. Berry, of Noblesville, motorman on the traction car, was the only witness to the tragedy. He said he blew the car whistle a number of times. When only a few feet from the car, Berry said, the women suddenly attempted to cross the tracks. The bodies were thrown one hundred feet. BODIES OF TWO ARE FOUND. Indiana Men Perished in Attempt to Ford Swollen Stream. Mt. Vernon, Ind., Feb. 22.—The bodies of Rocky Thomas, 23, and Christie Greenwell, 26, were found yesterday by Charles Buchanan, one mile from the Uniontown ferry in a swollen stream.	LAFAYETTE URGING UNIVERSITY MERGER Lafayette, Ind., Feb. 22.—More than 500 people interested in the proposed merging of Indiana and Purdue universities at this place will leave here this evening for Indianapolis to attend the public hearing on the Van Anken bill. The party will be headed by Congressman Will R. Wood and will be made up of influential men of the city and county. They will attempt at the meeting to make clear the advantages of Lafayette as a superior college site, and will also show the advantage of one big state institution over two small ones.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Luke 10:25-37.

25 And, behold, a certain lawyer stood up, and tempted him, saying, Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?

26 He said unto him, What is written in the law? how readest thou?

27 And he answering said, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbour as thyself.

28 And he said unto him, Thou hast answered right: this do, and thou shalt live.

29 But he, willing to justify himself, said unto Jesus, And who is my neighbour?

30 And Jesus answering said, A certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and fell among thieves, which stripped him of his raiment, and wounded him, and departed, leaving him half dead.

31 And by chance there came down a certain priest that way; and when he saw him, he passed by on the other side.

32 And likewise a Levite, when he was at the place, came and looked on him, and passed by on the other side.

33 But a certain Samaritan, as he journeyed, came where he was; and when he saw him, he had compassion on him,

34 And went to him, and bound up his wounds, pouring in oil and wine, and set him on his own beast, and brought him to an inn, and took care of him.

35 And on the morrow when he departed, he took out two pence, and gave them to the host, and said unto him, Take care of him; and whatsoever thou spendest more, when I come again, I will repay thee.

36 Which now of these three, thinkest thou, was neighbour unto him that fell among the thieves?

37 And he said, He that shewed him, Go, and do thou likewise. Mercy on him. Then said Jesus unto

The Evangelistic Campaign.

The union evangelistic campaign which for the past seven weeks has engaged Fort Wayne's attention has come to a close and Rev. Dr. Milford H. Lyon and his co-workers are leaving to continue their efforts in new fields. That the Fort Wayne effort has been notably successful, and that vast good has been accomplished in this city will scarcely be doubted for a moment by any person who has seriously followed the developments of the remarkable campaign.

Not everybody can be expected to unqualifiedly endorse from their personal viewpoint all the phases of work of this character. Some methods and some elements of militant evangelism have always aroused antagonism, and perhaps will always do so. It is inevitable that there should be disagreement as to the propriety of some utterances and of some courses taken to accomplish highly desirable ends, but Rev. Dr. Lyon's effort is to be fairly judged only by its results. There can be no disputing the fact that these have been splendid, and any means and any methods that serve to turn people to right living and to awaken within their lives and their consciousness an enlightened conception of their duty to God and to their fellowman, is manifestly desirable and worthy of unqualified endorsement.

It is certain that no previous religious event in the history of Fort Wayne has ever stirred the city so deeply and so generally. Day after day, and night after night, uninterruptedly for seven weeks, people have packed the great tabernacle, and uncounted thousands have besieged its portals to hear the word, to uplift the song of praise and to catch a higher soul vision. Practically five thousand persons have during the tabernacle campaign taken an avowed stand for Christ, and vastly more than that number have there sought and found a deeper and richer religious experience. Perhaps a still larger number have had their minds and hearts turned to religious things by the reading of the newspaper reports and by the fact that the work of the campaign has been upon almost every tongue for the past seven weeks.

The result cannot be fairly discounted in advance by raising the possibility that some of them will ultimately lapse into lower realms than the new-found paths. That contingency, should it happen, will not be the fault of the evangelist, or chargeable to the tabernacle meetings. It will be the responsibility of the individual and of those who remain to conserve the fruitage of the evangelistic effort. That there is to be a determined and whole-hearted effort to continue to build up and enrich the new-found Christian experience is plainly apparent. It is a matter of congratulation, also, that Dr. Lyon and his co-workers have been suitably compensated for their labors here. The values of the work they have done cannot be measured in terms of dollars and cents, and the returns to them have been rather a matter of gratitude than of financial compensation.

The tabernacle campaign in Fort Wayne has been splendidly successful. It has been worth to the city immeasurably more than it has cost in time, in effort, in interest, in devotion and in financial expenditure.

ECONOMICAL AND EDIFYING.

(Pittsburgh Dispatch.)

The decision of the girls of the Huntington, W. Va., high school to lower the cost of graduation by making their own graduation gowns, and of the boys to earn enough to pay for their graduation suits is worthy of praise. Much has been said of the unmercenary tendency of making graduation day a juvenile fashion exhibit. Parents of pupils who could not afford the expense of "Keeping Up With Lizzie" have been victimized by a foolish practice in the effort to have their children from feeling humiliated by the greater splendor of the spenders. Suggestions have been made to overcome this by limiting the cost and style of graduation gowns but the Huntington plan is even better. The girl with taste and ability need not fear competition in such a contest, and the rivalry in well-made will stimulate an active interest in a domestic art too often neglected in these days

Ability to make one's own clothes is a much more practical and profitable accomplishment than many of the arts and graces on which time is lavishly wasted.

With the boys, too, the experience of earning for themselves should be not only economical but edifying. Both sexes will be taught one of the greatest and most needed lessons by this plan, that of self reliance. Loyally followed out, the Huntington experiment should produce results, both on the platform and in after life, that should make the plan worthy of general emulation.

U. S. NOW FACING A CRISIS, SAYS TAFT

Morrisstown, N. J., Feb. 22.—The United States is threatened with a serious invasion of its rights as a neutral by the warring nations of Europe, and in preserving its commerce with those nations is too to face with a crisis, in the opinion of former President Taft. In the solution of that crisis, should it arise, no jingo spirit must be allowed to prevail.

Mr. Taft advised that neither pride nor momentary passion should influence our judgment. And when the president shall act, Mr. Taft declared, "we must stand by him to the end. In this determination we may be sure that all will join, no matter what their previous views, no matter what their European origin. All will forget their differences in self-sacrificing loyalty to our common flag and our common country."

Mr. Taft's reference to the situation confronting the United States was made at the conclusion of an address delivered here today before the Washington association of New Jersey.

Farmersburg, Ind., Feb. 22.—The safe in the Citizens' bank of this place was blown during the night by robbers and $9,500 taken. The robbery was discovered this morning by the cashier, John L. Lloyd.

Connections left in the light fixtures showed the safe had been drilled by electricity and nitroglycerine apparently had been used to blow open the safe.

HARP EVANGELIST
AT BAPTIST CHURCH

Rev. George H. Thompson to Conduct Series of Meetings Here.

Rev. George H. Thompson, the famed "Harp Evangelist," who has held meetings in all parts of the country will begin a series of special revival services at the Baptist tabernacle, on Jefferson street, between Harrison and Webster, beginning Tuesday evening, February 23, services beginning at 7:30 each evening. At these meetings baptisms will be administered every evening and new members otherwise received. All candidates for membership can be received at any of the evening services, but a special service of all the new converts desiring to unite with the church will be held Monday evening. All who possibly can are asked to meet on Monday night.

A harp evangelist is a new vocation for Fort Wayne. There have been the "weeping" evangelist and the "what-you-call-it" evangelist, but the man who can play the harp is a distinct type. Rev. Thompson is a master musician on the harp and also a fine chorus leader as well as a soloist of some renown. There are always a number of powerful factors in choosing an evangelist: (1) Will he attract the people? (2) Are his methods acceptable and adaptable? That he should be a man of God in character and conduct goes without saying. Many great and excellent preachers cannot attract the people. The people have good preaching every Sabbath. Some men are now attended by soloists and singers who complete the attraction. In these days there must be some uniqueness in an evangelist so as to "get a hearing" from the people. The modern evangelist must have personality, methods, wisdom, versatility and many-sidedness to fit him for his calling.

A Great Attraction.
Rev. Thompson's harp is a great attraction, but he uses it as a help and servant, not as a fad and plaything and he is an elegant player. Rev. Thompson is a strong preacher and attracts the people in crowds. While he is entertaining, humorous and abundant in pleasanties, he is never undisciplined and never "loses a soul so as to court a grin." He rebukes, but never scolds; he is plain and frank, but not insolent and gruff; in a word he is a Christian gentleman in the pulpit as well as in the house. He will capture Fort Wayne and greatly add to the present high spiritual and moral clean-up of this city.

These meetings will be held in the main auditorium of the church. A large chorus will be organized and sing every night under the special direction of Evangelist Thompson. All friends, strangers and especially the new converts are invited.

EXODUS BEGINS ANEW.

Night Raiders Again Fire Into Cabins of Negroes at New Madrid.

New Madrid, Mo., Feb. 22.—Night raiders last night again shot into the cabins occupied by negro farm laborers near here and today the exodus of frightened negroes began anew. According to reports the night raiders planned action against all negro laborers found in the vicinity after Tuesday night. The night raiders comprise a band of dissatisfied white farm laborers, who, according to the land owners, seek to drive negro renters and laborers out of the district in the hope of obtaining higher wages or farms at lower rentals.

FIRE DAMAGE IS EXTENSIVE.

Big Blaze in Central District of East St. Louis, Ill.

East St. Louis, Ill., Feb. 22. Fire that started in the upper floor of Ziegenhein Brothers' furniture store today spread to the four corners at the intersection of Collinsville and St. Louis avenues and caused a loss exceeding $150,000. Two buildings—the Ziegenhein building and one occupied by the Feitner-Crow store—were partly burned but the walls will stand. An apartment house was burned but all the twenty-five families occupying it escaped. Two theaters near by were threatened but escaped damage.

OWES HIS LIFE TO HIS DOG.

Canine Comes to Rescue of Warsaw Farmer Attacked by Bull.

Warsaw, Ind., Feb. 22.—Hiram Frantz, 73, a farmer living near here, claims today he owes his life to a dog. Frantz went into a field in which a bull was confined and was attacked by the animal. He tried to reach the fence but was overtaken. He was being trampled and gored when his dog came to his assistance. The dog sank its teeth into the bull's nose. The bull tried to shake off the dog, but did not succeed until Mr. Frantz escaped.

HOT TEA BREAKS
A COLD—TRY THIS

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teaspoon full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Adv.

a Brief Illness at the Age of 73 Years.

Caleb McKensie, an employe of the Bowser Manufacturing company, died at the family residence, 2318 Smith street at 3:50 o'clock Monday morning at the age of 73 years following a week's illness of pneumonia.

Mr. McKensie came to America fifty years ago and immediately moved to Fort Wayne, where he entered into the painting and contracting business. He retired from this work ten years ago and since that time had worked at the Bowser plant. He was a member of the 10th regiment volunteers of Ohio and was well known throughout the county.

He was a member of the St. Peter's Catholic church and also of the Holy name society of the same congregation. Besides his wife he is survived by two children—John L. McKensie, of this city, and Mrs. J. L. Osborne, of Detroit. One grandchild also survives.

STRASBURG.

A. William Strasburg, aged 73 years, died at the family home, 1024 Wilt street, at 9:15 o'clock Sunday morning following an extended illness. Death was due to nephritis. LONG.

Mrs. James Long, aged 71 years, died Saturday evening at the family home in the Pixley-Long block, following a very short illness from pneumonia. It is believed that grief over the death of the youngest son, which occurred last week, hurried the death of the aged woman. Mrs. Long grew worse at 10 o'clock and a doctor was called, but she died before the physician arrived.

Mr. and Mrs. Long came to Fort Wayne thirty-five years ago from Michigan. Mr. Long is a veteran of the civil war and the aged couple were well known throughout the city. Besides the husband she is survived by two sons, Claude H. and Harry M., both of this city, and one grandchild.

The deceased was a member of the Bethany Presbyterian church and also of the Christian Endeavor society of that congregation. Surviving besides the parents are the following brothers:

MANY CASES OF RHEUMATISM NOW

Says We Must Keep Feet Dry, Avoid Exposure and
Eat Less Meat.

Stay off the damp ground, avoid exposure, keep feet dry, eat less meat, drink lots of water and above all take a spoonful of salts occasionally to keep down uric acid.

Rheumatism is caused by poisonous toxin, called uric acid, which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine. The pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities. Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant effervescent lithia-water drink which overcomes uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.—Adv.

MINISTERS MEET FOR CARD DISTRIBUTION

Over 400 Converts Gave No Preference of Church.

The members of the Fort Wayne Ministerial association who co-operated in the Lyon evangelistic meeting Monday morning at 10 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church for the distribution of cards signed by converts and those who renewed their faith during the tabernacle meetings. Over 400 gave no preference of church and these were divided among the pastors in the best known manner.

The place of residence was considered as was also the church to which members of the person's family belonged. Many cards had no addresses on them which made the problem still more difficult, but all those who have signed cards will be looked after and asked to join one of the churches.

In discussing the names of those who have signed cards the ministers state that there are some who never before had given the least thought towards religion while there are others who have always attended church regularly but who have never taken an active part in the affairs of the congregation and who now intend to do some personal work. The members of the association are more than pleased with the outcome of the meetings.

BETHANY CHURCH ACTIVITIES.

The week will be full of activity at Bethany church. Tuesday evening the men of the west end will meet at the church at 7:30 to establish a bible class and Good Fellowship organization. All the men of the west end are invited, no matter whether they are members of this church or that, or no church.

At the same hour the women of North Wayne heights will meet to begin their bible class as suggested by Dr. Lyon.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

When Mixed with Sulphur
It Brings Back Its Lustre
and Abundance.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all find the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It uncles or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't stay gray! Look Young! Either prepare the tonic at home or get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wet's Sage and Sulphur Compound."

Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully and removes dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair; besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.—Adv.

The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. David Case, 1634 High street.

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings there will be special services at the church at which time there will be given an opportunity for new members to be united with the church.

Thursday evening the Rev. Charles Rath will speak on the progress of the Kingdom of Christ, as it is seen in a World-Wide Vision. He will use the stereopticon to illustrate the conquests of the kingdom. The Rev. Rath is from the Philippine Islands.

Thursday and Friday at 4:15 p. m. the children under fourteen who signed cards during the Lyon meetings will meet at the church and form a class preparatory to church membership. The class to be received into the church at Easter time. Other children who so desire may be in this class.

ASSUMES CHARGE OF CHURCH.

Rabbi E. B. Goldberg, of Chicago, arrived in the city Sunday morning and in the afternoon met with the new Jewish congregation, Shara Zedek, in Dehm's hall, on Calhoun street, and assumed charge of the congregation, which will continue to meet in the hall until a synagogue has been erected.

The rabbi delivered a very stirring sermon and especially aroused his hearers by declaring that one of the chief aims of the new congregation would be to establish a school for Hebrew children. He states that the importance of instructing children in a school of Jewish faith can not be overestimated.

Next Sunday is Purim, a Jewish holiday, in which the memory of Queen Esther is honored and services will be held Saturday evening and Sunday morning in Dehm's hall. Permanent officers will also be elected at this time.

Selections will be given by the Camp Lawton string orchestra, a bugler will sound the army calls and the reception of the colors will be an impressive ceremony. A number of war songs will be sung by a male quartet.

There will be observances in a number of local secret societies. Rev. No. 1, Benevolent Order of Buffaloes, will have a Washington birthday celebration at the home, 120 West Berry street, next Sunday.

In commemoration of the birthday of George Washington, chapel was held at the Fort Wayne High and Manual Training school Monday morning, at which time the students heard an interesting address by Rev. A. J. Folom, on the subject, "America a Hundred Years Ago." He pointed out how America, although only in its infancy, was one of the leading powers of the world. He closed by saying "And in tribute to the founder of our nation be true to God and be true to yourself." The students sang several national hymns, including "America" and "The Star Spangled Banner."

In the various grade schools of the city a program appropriate for the occasion was rendered in the afternoon. The programs consisted of musical numbers and recitations and in the upper grades addresses were delivered by one of the teachers or some other person interested in the schools. In the lower grades the teachers read stories to the children about the childhood days of George Washington.

The Pioneers will leave for St. Joe Tuesday evening over the Wabash at 5:45 o'clock for their game at that place.

that the Lasky company has used the

cruited this youthful star to the ranks

Betty Nansen in "The Celebrated Scandal" Tomorrow.

Betty Nansen, the world famous emotional actress, whose remarkable interpretations of the various Ibsen plays caused critics to pronounce her art
even greater than that of the great Bernhardt, comes to the Jefferson tomorrow, playing a highly emotional
role in Echarowsky's noted dramatic success, "The Celebrated Scandal."

AT THE LYRIC.

Charlie Chaplin, the foremost comedian of the screen world, the man who has been greeted with more laughs in
the last two years than have been the
portion of any actor in the entire world's history is at the Lyric with
Marie Dresser in the comedy masterpiece
"Tillie's Punctured Romance." The production will be there this evening and tomorrow. Chaplin alone is a big enough attraction to draw any man away from his friends but when this prince of clowns is supported by a cast that includes huge Marie Dresser, there's fun
galore in store for everyone.

AT THE COLONIAL

THOMAS A. WISE AT COLONIAL.

Genial Actor Creates on Screen Role
He Made Famous on Speaking
Stage.

Tom Wise, the rotund star, whose conquest on the legitimate stage in the well remembered comedy-drama "The Gentleman from Mississippi," is recalled with a good deal of reminiscent pleasure by all playgoers, comes to the Colonial today in a picture version of the old success, produced under the direction of those master stage geniuses,
Shubert and Brady. The success that Wise attained in the oral edition of the play cannot hope to approach that which he is bound to procure in the mimic reproduction, for the greater latitude of
the cinema provides for the inclusion
of numerous scenes and movements
which were necessarily omitted in the
stage production.

William Farnum in "The Gilded Fool"
Tomorrow.

William Farnum, the actor, whose
continued successes upon the screen
have prompted him to temporarily desert the stage, appears at the Colonial tomorrow in the title of the remarkable dramatic success, "The Gilded Fool."

MME. BERNHARDT HAS RIGHT LEG AMPUTATED

Bordeaux, France, Feb. 22.—The right leg of Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, the famous tragedienne, was amputated today
at the St. Augustine hospital at Ar-cachon. The operation, made necessary
by an affection of the knee which had caused much suffering for several years,
was performed by Prof. De Luce, of the Bordeaux university.

Prof. Pozzi was to have conducted the operation yesterday but he was called to the colors to serve at the Val-de-Grace hospital in Paris and he found it impossible to leave his duties for several days.

Mme. Bernhardt refused to submit to a delay of what she courageously called her release from bondage and it was de-

Headed by the greatest musical act of its character that ever appeared on a vaudeville stage, the Ralph Dunbar Singing Bell Ringers, the fifth big B. F.
Keith vaudeville program opened at the New Palace this afternoon. Floyd Garrett, the famous Chicago boy soprano is
with this company and will sing the old time gem "Silver Threads Among the Gold." "Fun's Funniest Family" the Three Keatons, father, mother and son,
will be seen in their melange of ab-surdities. James Kyle MacCurdy has a splendid company assisting him in the presentation of his own playlet masterpiece, "Put On Your Old Gray Bonnet."

Wood and Wyde, secured directly
from the Majestic theater in Chicago,
will replace Harry Bulger on this bill.
Mr. Bulger was stricken with apoplexy in Grand Rapids Saturday night and is in a grave condition in a Grand Rapids hospital. Three boys who can sing are Corbett, Shepard and Donavau; while Gere and Dehauy will present their picturesque skit novelty and Anthony and Mack will be enjoyed as "The Italian and the Boss." Another series
of the B. F. Keith Jaunts and Journeys
complete the bill.

AT THE EMPRESS.

Going to the big circus? Sure, everybody is going. The big circus is now at the Empress theater. There's sawdust
everywhere, just like there is in a regular circus, and jumbo peanuts, red lemonade and a real for sure menagerie.
The big sensational feature of this circus is the phantom voiced rose girl. She sails over the heads of the people in the audience to the stage and renders a song
as she sails. The McLinn trio present
a novelty acrobatic act: Coin's dogs have an act in which no human being appears on the stage; Carlo's dogs bring a great bunch of stuff, while the Three Hastings have a unique ragtime act.
The Eula Lee quartet, composed entirely of young ladies, has a fine line of songs.
Announcer Harvey M. Porter, in the makeup of a regular circus announcer,
makes a big hit himself.

Yield Yourself Wholly to the Will of God, Urges Dr. Lyon, as Evangelistic Campaign Closes.

THE WILL OF GOD.

Matthew 7:21—"Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of My Father who is in heaven."

In these words, Jesus warns His disciples against any superficial conception of His Lordship. It must be in reality and not in seeming profession. Every great life is characterized by a willingness to do God's will. Every stream that has blessed and beautified human life has had its source in the fountain of obedience to God; every stream that has poisoned, polluted and blighted human life has had its source in disobedience to God.

Jesus began His plea for obedience by exhorting His hearers to loyalty to the will of His Father. He then proceeded to teach them that He and the Father are one, and he that had seen Him had also seen the Father. Scientific instruction always endeavors to connect the knowledge to be imparted with something already learned. At the beginning of His ministry, His disciples acknowledged, theoretically at least, the authority of the Father. Starting with this as a basis, Jesus desired to make this acceptance of divine authority more than mere Pharisaism and formalism. It was far easier for them to profess allegiance to the Jehovah who in times past had manifested Himself to His servants and prophets by voice or vision, than it was practically to receive and obey this same Jehovah in the person of His Son. This, Jesus was to bring religious profession to an issue. Men were either to do the will of God as it was now declared unto them, or by refusing, they would close the door of the divine kingdom against themselves. Their religion was to be a structure built upon the rock or on the sand and whether they should accept or should reject the Master's words would determine it.

Much of the failure to do God's will is due to indecision rather than to disobedience. Religion is positive rather than negative; it consists in doing right rather than in not doing wrong. Neglect rather than antagonism is the great sin of our day. To acknowledge definite allegiance to Christ requires energy on the part of the will. Yielding your will to God's will is not a destruction of your will, but it is its exercise in the highest and broadest channel. Discipline consists, not in breaking the will, but in developing and directing it. Doing the word of Christ implies action. "Thy will be done on earth," be done by whom? By you, by me. The same propensity that would produce a failure in religion would also make a failure of any and every other line of activity; namely, indecision of character.

If you should liken the life to a locomotive, you might liken the intellect to the machinery, the memory to the fuel in the tender, and the emotions to the fire beneath the boiler. But it is the will, who is the engineer in the cab, with his hand upon the lever and the throttle, who will speed the train to its destination, or leave it to back down grade into the ditch.

No man, by a process of reasoning, can think himself into the kingdom of heaven. The journey to salvation might be likened to a trip to Europe; intellect like the railway could take you to the coast, but you must then take the definite step from the railway train to the steamship before you could complete your journey. True, you might take a trip on the cars, up and down the coast, but that would not get you across the ocean. So no process of thinking, simply, will produce the result of conversion. There must be brought into operation the agency of the will. When the Spirit through your conscience shows you what you ought to do, God can do no more for you until with His grace you are willing to do it.

An illustration of the result of indecision is the case of President James Buchanan. Before the civil war, when the confederates were seizing the forts and arsenals, he sat in the executive chair repeatedly saying to inquirers, "that he could do nothing to prevent these seizures. Historians have doubtless as justly given President Buchanan the justice he deserves. He was not at heart disloyal to his country. The difficulty was in a weak and vacillating disposition. If he had had the decision of character of an Andrew Jackson or even of a Theodore Roosevelt, and said as he clinched his fist, "The laws of this country are going to be enforced," we would never have had a civil war.

This same spirit of indecision was the fatal weakness in the life of General George B. McClellan. In many ways he was an ideal soldier and general. He had graduated at the head of his class at West Point, and was heartily beloved by all his troops, who called him "Little Mac." But he halted his army in front of those wooden cannons at Yorktown, when President Lincoln and the whole cabinet were urging him on to capture Richmond. Historians on both sides have agreed that had General McClellan pushed forward with aggressiveness and decision he would have shortened the civil war at least two years.

There are, indeed, two general types of character; one may be called the commercial type, the other the judicial. The banker, for example, is called upon to make many decisions on the spot. The judge, on the other hand, weighs and considers each case with careful deliberation. Yet there is this point of likeness between them: in each instance when the individual is certain what is the right thing to do, he does it. That is, if he is a true man. No one could be successful in business who took any other course.

An example of one type of character would be such a man as Bacon, the philosopher. He had always used the deductive system of philosophy, the method of Plato and Socrates, but gradually there dawned upon Bacon's mind a better method; the inductive system. He knew that to present these to the world would be in the face of criticism and ridicule. But when he was convinced what he ought to do he published his discoveries.

An example of the other type of character would be such a man as Wendell Phillips, that brilliant young lawyer of Boston. One day another lawyer said to him, "Phillips, I want you to go out riding with me this afternoon, with us two young ladies." "All right," replied

Phillips, "I will go." "But wait," said his friend, "do not answer too quickly. I want to warn you that the young lady who is to accompany you is a rank abolitionist, and if you are not careful she will try to make an abolitionist of you." "Oh," said Phillips, "I do not fear any danger along that line." But sure enough, they had scarcely gotten seated in that carriage until the young woman began to pour forth arguments in support of human liberty and in opposition to negro slavery. So eloquently and logically did she speak that at the close of the ride he had become convinced as to what he ought to do, and when he helped her alight from the carriage he grasped the hand of one who afterwards became his wife, and his most able supporter, and she grasped the hand of one who was henceforth to be one of the foremost advocates and champions of human freedom.

You will note the difference between these two characters, Bacon and Phillips. One came to decision slowly, the other one quickly, but there was this element alike in both. In each case when the individual was convinced what he ought to do, he did it. No one can be true to himself and do anything less. Emerson has well said, "Do what you believe is right today, even if it is absolutely contrary to anything you ever have done." Consistency is the characteristic of the small life. Let us rather say with Oliver Wendell Holmes:

"Build thou more stately mansions, oh, my soul,
While the swift seasons roll,
Leave thy low vaulted past,
Leave thy low vaulted past,
Let each new dwelling nobler than the last,
Shut thee from heaven with a dome more vast,
"Till thou at length art free."

This element of decision of character is always evident in a strong life. Many that have great qualities of intellect are feeble and ineffectual on account of the failure of the will. They are over learning and never able to come to the knowledge of the truth. With them,

"The native line of resolution
Is sicklier o'er with the pale cast of thought,
And enterprises of great pith and moment
With this regard their currents turn Swept, and lose the name of action."

This apathy and indecision is nowhere so disastrous in its effects as in the domain of the spirit. Every soul that has been great for God, having seen its duty, has done it. Throughout the Scripture every character that flashes and flames far out amidst the darkness like a beacon light has been denoted by this quality. Abram, when he was called to go unto a place that he was to receive for an inheritance, obeyed, not knowing whether he went. Moses called to go up in the presence of Egypt's absolute monarch, obeyed. Elijah, commanded to go into hiding by the brook Cherith, went and did according to the word of the Lord. John and Andrew and Matthew heard the voice of Jesus and followed Him. These were all men of decision. "Whosoever shall do the will of My Father who is in heaven, he is my brother and sister and mother."

Saul of Tarsus on the Damascus road, saw clearly what he ought to do. It would require him to be absolutely contrary to what he had been. But he did just what any true life must do. He got down from his pride, his prejudice, his rebellion, and answered, "Lord, what shall I do?" It is this definite surrender to Christ that heralds the dawning of a new life within his soul. Every genuine character must be willing to submit to this great law of progress; to do what you know to be right today, even if it is absolutely contrary to everything you ever have done. To you, the risen Lord is now manifesting Himself, claiming your unhesitating and unqualified allegiance. This is the will of the Father, that you believe on Him whom He hath sent. God grant that you may be able to say with Paul, "I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision."

We are now led to consider what are the results that follow the doing of the will of God. First, there comes spiritual knowledge. But some will say, How can I know what God's will for my life is or, if I knew certainly just what the Lord wanted me to do, I would say very quickly whether or not I would do it. But you will never know what the Lord wants you to do until first you yield your life to do His will. It is not knowledge first, and obedience afterwards; it is obedience first and knowledge afterwards.

A colonel of a regiment does not give directions to everyone in the community, but only to the special body of men who have sworn allegiance to the commander, and promised obedience to his orders. Then he tells them what he wants them to do. So Jesus says, "If any man will to do his will, he shall know of the teaching." Here comes in the importance and necessity of faith as a pre-requisite for obedience. It is not until a man has complete confidence in Christ, that he is willing to abandon his life and destiny wholly into His hands.

It might be interpreted that Christ Himself taught that it was the will of God, the Father, that they were to do. But He went on to teach that the will of the Father was that they should believe on His Son. That he who had seen the Son had seen the Father also. Doing the will of God, then, is the will of the Father and the Son. To us the will of the Father is, in an especial sense the will of Christ, for through the Son is our only avenue of knowing the Father. God in Christ is a definite personality to us, one who took upon Himself our nature. And in His life, His teachings, His works, and His death we have the revelation of the Father's will.

In the next place, obedience to the will of God is essential for practical effectiveness. We can liken the universe to a great business corporation with Jesus as the great General Manager. Every employer of men will agree that an employee is valuable, not simply in proportion to his ability, but even more according to his willingness to do the will of his employer. When any business man can get an assistant who will take as much interest in his business as he himself does, he doubles his own effectiveness. No better rule can be given to young men starting out in business than this: Find out what your employer wants you to do, and then do it. In like manner, no better rule for spiritual effectiveness can be given than this: Find out what Jesus Christ, your Lord, wants you to do, and then do it.

Many are willing to do the work of God that are not willing to do the will of God. It is as if the manager of a great firm should say some morning to his stenographer, "I am going out for an hour, you sit down and wait until I return." But after he is gone, the secretary says, "I must earn my wages, I must be at work." Sometimes, it is harder to wait than it is to work. "They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength." So she goes to work and writes letters to many correspondents, according to her own ideas, without directions from her employer. After a time replies to these letters begin to come in. She did the work of her employer, but did not do his will. She probably did far more harm than good.

Or, it would be as if you were erecting a great building and employing scores of workmen, and a strange man should come some morning with his hammer and trowel and start to work. He would not consult you, the owner, neither the architect, who had planned and was supervising the construction. The new workman would conclude, in one place, to put in a window; in another to build the wall solid. At the close of the day, he comes around for his pay. You say to him, "Who are you?" "Why, I have been working upon this building." "Who employed you and gave you directions?" "No one. I have been directing myself." "What have you done?" "Well, I built a solid wall there." "But I intended to have a door there." "Well, I have put in a window over here." "But I did want a window here. You have done far more injury than you have benefit. In place of giving you any pay, I should much better sue you for damages."

So, in the church there are many people who will work for the church or organization. They will help to build a new building, to buy pious furniture, to get new carpets, or to raise debts. They will help to get up banners and suppers and shows, taking part, as it were, in the cooking-stove apostasy of modern religion, and sometimes turning the church into a second-class restaurant or theater. They are good people in many ways; they will work hard; in fact, they will do anything but be religious. Many in these days are mistaking perspiration for inspiration. It is not work, work, work; but will, will, will, that is the key to spiritual success.

The cause of the effectiveness and exaltation of Jesus was not, solely, that He was born of the virgin Mary overshadowed by the Holy Spirit. This might have happened and yet He could have failed to gain the crown. He himself reveals the secret of His favor with the Father: "I am come down from heaven, not to do Mine own will, but the will of Him that sent Me."

In the second chapter of Philipians, the apostle discloses the successive causes that led to the coronation of Jesus. These are valuable to us because they mark not only the pathway by which He ascended to the throne, but by which we also, may follow in His footsteps, and share in His government and glory. "Have this mind in you, which was also in Christ Jesus: Who, existing in the form of God, counted not the being on an equality with God a thing to be grasped, but emptied Himself, taking the form of a servant, being made in the likeness of men, and being found in fashion as a man. He humbled Himself, becoming obedient even unto death; yea, the death of the cross. Wherefore, also God highly exalted Him, and gave unto Him the name which is above every name; that in the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of things in heaven and things on earth and things under the earth; and that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father."

The word, "wherefore," points two ways: first to the causes that precede it, and second to the results that follow it. At the battle of Creecy, King Edward of England, replied to the call of his son, the Black Prince, for reinforcements, "Let the boy win his spurs." The sovereignty of Jesus was won not simply by inheritance, that He was the only begotten of the Father; it was the triumph of subjection and obedience. "This truth, of life through death, of exaltation through subjection of authority through obedience, is the greatest paradox of history. Jesus gave as the controlling motive of His earthly life: 'I am come down from heaven not to do mine own will, but the will of Him that sent Me.' In like manner we are to gain spiritual advancement by the method which the Master Himself pursued—by a willingness to do the will of the Father.

"To took upon Himself the form of a servant." Literally the apostle says, "He took upon Himself the form of a bond servant; and became obedient, not in a few things, not simply in those things that were easy and pleasant, but His obedience extended to the limit. 'He became obedient unto death.' This victory was gained, even with Jesus Himself, not without the greatest suffering and struggle. It caused even the blood drops to ooze from the pores, and wrung from His heart the agonizing cry, 'My Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from Me.' It ought to be helpful to us to realize that it was here, on this earth, that Jesus fought the battles and won the victories that resulted in His Lordship. So it seems that this world is God's great testing ground. Each of us is being tried, as it were, by fire, to find whether or not we are willing to yield our own preferences and desires, and will to do the will of God.

But the importance of doing the Father's will is still more evident, when we realize that it is a question not only of spiritual effectiveness, but also of salvation itself. "Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of My Father who is in heaven." Nothing else can take the place of obedience. It is an absolute essential. In the economy of God there is no time or place for a human being that will not follow His directions. As Jesus Himself said, recorded in John 15:6: "If a man abide not in Me, he is cast forth as a branch, and

I care not what may be your other qualifications; you may have joined every church from the most gorgeous (Catholic cathedral to the plain, old-fashioned Quaker meeting house. You may have been baptized with water fresh from the Holy Jordan. You may have performed all of the rites and ceremonies of every religious order. And yet, if you are not willing to do what God wants you to do, and go where He wants you to go; you must, of necessity, be cast away. The important thing about your life is not that you be, or do, this or that; not that you go to or abide in, this place or the other. The important thing about every life is, that he does the will of God.

This obedience to divine authority is essential for peace, as well as knowledge and effectiveness and salvation. Physicians say this is an age of hysteria, of nervous prostration. The greatest cause of all of this is sin. And what is sin, but disobedience to God? We are trying to go contrary to God's plan, to split, as it were, crosswise of the grain. When God wants us to go one way and we, like Jonah, proceed to go another way, it makes a cross. When our wills are parallel with His will, there is no cross. Jesus said, "My peace I give unto you," and the peace of Christ was caused, primarily, by His willingness to do the will of the Father. When we tune the instrument of our souls in harmony with the heavenly chorus, there is no discordant note to rasp and jar and wear and worry.

"Great peace have they that love Thy law." "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on Thee; because he trusteth in Thee." When we bring our lives into conformity to God's eternal purpose, and become laborers together with Him, no longer do we struggle ineffectually against the stream, but prospered by His kindly currents and favoring breezes, with a peaceful voyage, we gain at last the long desired port, which striving alone we would have toiled to reach in vain.

I know not what God has in store for you in the years to come, neither what he has in store for me. I know that it is a very serious thing to put yourself wholly into God's hands to do His will. It may be an overturning of all of your most cherished plans and prospects. It may take you out of your chosen work, and put you into something that you have said you would not do, that you had fought against doing. For, as a rule, if there is anything in which one says, "No," to God, he will have to say "Yes," before he can gain a great blessing. Yet it has come to this, according to the words of our Master. We must either cease our mere verbal profession, or we must unconditionally abandon ourselves to do His will.

Do you believe in Christ? Do you believe in His infinite wisdom, His infinite power, His infinite love? Do you believe that His plan for your life is a better plan than you possibly can form for yourself? Do you believe that in proportion as you follow this plan, your life, from the eternal standpoint, will be permanently rich and happy and successful? If you do, then you will exclaim with the Psalmist, "I delight to do Thy will, O my God."

If, in times of war, men are willing to leave home and family and friends, to leave business and fortune and turn their back on all the world holds dear, to give their time, their health and strength, and even life itself for the sake of their country, what ought lives be willing to do for their great commander, Jesus Christ, and the advancement of the kingdom of God?

During the civil war the citizens of Boston raised the money and equipped a regiment of negro soldiers. They decided that in order to have this regiment have a place and prestige in the army it would be necessary to officer it with white men, and the higher the characters of the officers, the greater would be the rank of the regiment. A committee was chosen to select a colonel. After careful consideration they decided unanimously upon a talented young lawyer of Boston, Ralph Gould Shaw. They waited upon him and expressed to him their request. They said, "Mr. Shaw, we know that if you take this position, it would be at a great sacrifice, but we feel that the fate of the nation is hanging in the balance, and your country needs your service. Hence, we ask you to take the colonelcy of this black regiment." (Without hesitancy he replied, "Gentlemen, I will do so.")

He was engaged to marry a beautiful girl of Boston, and the wedding was hastened. He kissed his young bride goodbye in the church, at the marriage altar, and went out the door and mounted his horse to join his regiment, which was starting south. It was the time when the attack was to be made on Charleston, S. C. Fort Wagner was the chief defense of that city. It stood out on the ocean shore and any attacking column would not be protected by even a stump or a stone. At evening Colonel Shaw stood before his men and said, "Boys, our regiment has been selected to lead in the attack upon Fort Wagner at daybreak." On that next morning, in the gray twilight, you might have seen that regiment, a full thousand strong, marching over that ocean beach when the tide was out, with fixed bayonets, as silently as the snow flakes fall. That great, grim fortress was as silent as a graveyard, until the attacking column got within a few rods of the outer breastworks. Then at a given signal the fortress was literally alive with men. They poured forth such a storm of musketry and grape-shot and canister upon the advancing column, that one-half of that negro regiment fell at the first volley.

Said the general of Massachusetts, who witnessed this scene, "The last I saw of Colonel Shaw was when he sprang upon the parapet and waving his sword, shouted to his men to come on." At the second volley the other half of that black regiment fell like new mown hay before the mow, and the body of Colonel Shaw fell inside the fortification. That night under flag of truce, request was made of the confederate commander of Fort Wagner, asking for the body of Colonel Shaw, explaining that he belonged to one of the first families of New England, and that he had had his young wife goodbye at the wedding altar. The answer came back, "We have buried the Yankee colonel with his niggers." Said the general, "The sad duty fell to me to go back north and break the news of the death of Colonel Shaw to his young wife. I explained to her that if she insisted, that request would be made of President Davis, of the confederacy of Richmond, to have the body of Colonel Shaw disinterred and sent back to her for burial. 'With the spirit of generosity and chivalry, for which the south has always been noted,' he said; 'there is no doubt but what the request will be granted.' 'No,' said the heart-broken young wife, between her sobs, 'let him alone. I ask no nobler burial for my beloved husband than that he be buried by the side of those he died to free.'"

That night after the attack on Fort Wagner, Sergeant Kearney, who had carried the regimental flag that morning in the charge, when the flag had been shot from its staff he had grasped it before it fell and thrust it within his blue blouse. He had been wounded three times. Sometime that night he crawled out from beneath a heap of wounded and dead comrades, and by some miraculous means made his way from the confederate lines and when morning dawned he reached the union camp. The soldiers gathered about him and although weak from the loss of blood, crawling in upon his knees and knoes, he arose upon his hands and pulled out from his blouse the flag which was stained with his own blood, and as he held it up he said, with a look of joy and pride, "Boys, we nager touched the ground. This flag never touched the ground."

Friends, if a man will do that much for his flag and for his country, what ought you and I to do for Jesus Christ, our Lord and King? If you come out definitely into the Christian life and yield yourself in allegiance to Jesus, it may mean hardship, sacrifice, difficulty, danger and even death, but there will come into your life a peace and joy and power that you have never known before. You have come to the parting of the ways, it is this or nothing. You can no longer be a half hearted Christian. Say then, from your heart, this morning, "I will go where you want me to go, dear Lord. I will be what you want me to be."

LAFAYETTE TICKET OFFICE IS ROBBED

Thief Enters in Absence of Wabash Agent and Gets Away With $198.

The Wabash ticket office at Lafayette was robbed shortly after 1 o'clock this morning. The night agent, who attended at the ticket windows for trains 1 and 2, which passed that point between 12 and 1 o'clock, locked the cash drawer and the ticket office door after the passenger trains had gone and ran over to the freight office to look after some business. He was gone less than a half hour and upon his return he discovered that the office had been broken into, the cash drawer pried open and relieved of cash amounting to about $198. There was nobody about the premises when the agent returned upon whom suspicion could be laid, nor did he notice any suspicious characters at the ticket office before and it is not likely that the thief will be discovered. E. L. White is the ticket agent at Lafayette, but he does not attend the night trains and was not at the depot when Nos. 1 and 2 passed through the city.

PENALIZING TRESPASSING.

Central Safety Committee Urges Passage of the Bill.

R. C. Richards, chairman of the Central Safety committee, of Chicago, is appealing to railway men and citizens generally for aid in getting the state to pass laws which penalize trespassing on railways as a means of minimizing accidents. "Why not enact and enforce a law similar to that recommended by the National Association of Railway Commissioners to prevent this slaughter?" he says in his circular. Mr. Richards gives the following statistics: Trains killed in last twenty-five years, 113,670; injured, 123,611. Of this number 68 per cent. were people who resided in the vicinity where the accident happened, mostly wage earners. The bill proposed by the National Association of Railway Commissioners reads as follows:

"It shall be unlawful for any unauthorized person to walk, ride or drive upon or along the tracks or within the right of way of any railroad company operating its lines within this state, or to cross such tracks or right of way at any place other than at a public or private crossing: provided, however, that none of the provisions of this act shall apply to employees or licensees of any railroad company, while engaged in the performance of the duties of their employment, or otherwise acting pursuant to the license, nor to any person going in or upon such tracks or right of way to save human life or to protect property, nor to any person going or being upon or in the depot and station grounds of any such railroad company as a passenger or for the purpose of transacting business therewith. It is further provided that any station agent or section foreman in the employ of a railroad company doing business within this state shall have the same power and shall be charged with the same duties in the enforcement of this act as are given to deputy sheriffs by the general laws of the state.

"Any person wilfully violating the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof before a court of competent jurisdiction, shall be liable to a fine of not more than one hundred dollars or to imprisonment in the county jail for not more than ninety days, or to both fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court."

THE CO-OPERATIVE STORE.

Question Will Be Settled at Mass Meeting at the Tabernacle.

The men back of the movement to establish a co-operative store in Fort Wayne are jubilant over the prospects for successfully launching the project. At the tabernacle this evening all the committees appointed by the labor unions who favor the plan and hundreds of others interested in the movement will give the matter discussion. At a meeting at Unity hall last night a permanent organization was formed and following representatives elected:

First division, railroad trades—B. C. Spahr, B. of R. T.; L. C. Griffith, mail clerks and carriers.

Second division, building trades—Ernest Brokaw, plumbers and pipefitters.

Third division, metal trades—F. J. Schwanz, sheet metal workers No. 253; A. C. Boerger, electrical workers No. 723.

Fourth division, allied printing trades—H. J. Meyers, typographical union; Wm. Proctor, electrotypers and stereotypers.

Fifth division, unclassified—Wm. A. Jackson, bartenders; Harry Roemer, textile workers; J. E. Wolf, stationary engineers.

Of the foregoing the following officers were elected: F. J. Schwanz, president; J. E. Wolf, vice president; Harry Roemer, secretary; E. C. Spahr, treasurer. A bond of $50,000 will be required to be furnished by the treasurer.

Besides these representatives and officers chairmen for all ten wards of the city were appointed at the meeting last night.

P. R. Bell presided at the meeting at Unity hall and N. S. Patton, of the B. R. T., was the secretary. Among the speakers tonight will be President Charles Fox, of the Indiana Federation of Labor; M. L. Clawson, an Indianapolis attorney, and E. S. Phillips, manager of the Co-operative Department company of Indianapolis.

WAS STRUCK BY NO. 11.

Mystery Connected With Fatality at Van Wert Is Explained.

Robert C. Flemming, coroner of Van Wert county, has rendered a verdict in the case of the death of Carl Pangle, the young farmer killed on the Pennsylvania at Van Wert one night last week. According to the evidence gleaned from the investigation Coroner Flemming found that Pangle was struck by Pennsylvania westbound passenger train, No. 11, while his attention was attracted by a passing freight train on another track and a woman whom he had just left. The woman was Edna Boyd, a colored waiter at the Hotel Marsh, who said that Pangle had just accompanied her to the colored church, where they talked a few minutes, when he left, walking down the tracks and waiting for a freight train to pass. An instant later Edna saw the passenger train approaching, but she went within the church just as it passed, and did not learn of the accident until the next morning. Soon afterwards the mangled body was found where the engine had tossed it.

DIED IN DEPOT LOBBY.

James Polk, of Warsaw, Stricken While En Route Home.

William Polk, aged 82 years, died at

1 o'clock Sunday afternoon, a short time after being carried into the lobby of the Pennsylvania station. He had been visiting at the farm home of John Frey, a short distance out from Monroeville, and with that gentleman and his son, James Polk, the aged man came in the city over the interurban line and went from the station on Main street to the Pennsylvania depot, taking a city car line to Baker street. While walking on the latter street, Mr. Polk was taken suddenly with indigestion and was carried into the depot in an unconscious condition and laid upon one of the seats. Dr. J. C. Wallace was summoned and under his treatment the patient seemed to improve and arrangements were made to remove him to Hope hospital for further treatment. He suffered a sudden relapse, however, and died before the ambulance arrived at the depot. Coroner Edward Kruse, who viewed the remains, ordered the body taken to the Ulmer undertaking establishment, from whence it was taken to Warsaw Sunday evening. Mrs. Polk, the wife of the aged man, died two months ago. He is survived by the following sons: John, James and George Polk, of Warsaw; Marcellus D. Polk, of Milford, and Frank Polk, of Fairmount.

"WE ARE STARVING."

Was the Pathetic Story Covered by a Postage Stamp.

Last week one of the employees of the Powder works received a postcard from his brother, a soldier in one of the armies engaged in the bloody strife in Europe, which carried a story of suffering from lack of food, in addition to the hardships on the battlefield and the camp. On the space designed for the message the writer stated that he was well and happy. "Here is one of our postage stamps, which I place at the bottom of this card so it cannot be defaced in cancelling the postage above. You can keep it as a souvenir," wrote the soldier. Suspecting some other reason than that of souvenir, the man who received the postcard removed the stamp and there in legible hand but small letters were the words: "We are starving." This information could not have been carried openly on the postcard because of the strict censorship placed upon the mail by the military and postal officials of the country from which it came.

WILL GO AHEAD WITH WORK.

The adoption of a resolution by the Chicago council, giving the Baltimore and Ohio company the right to sell certain property, has settled the difficulty in the way of building the Chicago Union depot and work upon it by several thousand men will be commenced within a few weeks. The building will cost $65,000,000.

GETTING READY FOR INSPECTION.

The word has been passed along the line that Receivers E. B. Pryor and E. F. Kearney, of the Wabash, would make an inspection trip over the Wabash lines early in March. The itinerary of the party has not been given out, but all divisions have been instructed to "clean up" and be ready for inspection at a moment's notice.

Ailments of Men Happily Overcome

SUCCESSFULLY TRIED BY MANY.

Undoubtedly the following suggestion will work wonders for that great class of men who, through dissipation of their natural strength, find themselves in their "second childhood" long before the threescore and ten allotted to life's pleasures and enjoyments are reached.

It is presumed to be infallible and highly efficient in quickly restoring to "nervous exhaustion," weak vitality, melancholia and the functions.

By taking it at home no man need be the wiser as to another's shortcomings, and expensive fees are avoided.

Lack of poise and equilibrium in men is a constant source of embarrassment even when the public least suspects it. For the benefit of those who want a restoration to full, bounding health, and all the happiness accompanying it, let it be stated that the prescription calls only for three-grain Cadonene tablets, in sealed tubes, with full directions for self-administration. The tablets contain no opiates or habit-forming drugs, so a physician's prescription is not necessary. Well stocked pharmacies supply these tablets which possess the most wonderful tonic-involving powers imaginable. The effect of their use is soon apparent in new strength and nerve force.

It is believed that Webster was then trying to make his way home. It is the theory that he mistook the Wabash for the Nickel Plate track, which latter would have taken him near his home, and pursued his way to the point where he was struck by the train.
Body Identified.
After the body had been found Coroner E. H. Kruse and the police were notified. Deputy Coroner Robert B. Garmire went out to Grabbill to view the remains. When he arrived the body had not been identified. The fact that the man was well dressed, that save on the head the body bore no wounds, that his pockets contained no money or other valuables and that not a scrap of paper by which he could be identified, gave rise to theories of foul play. Sheriff Gladioux was then summoned. When he reached Grabbill the body was promptly

Preparing Schedule of Expenditures for Balance of Year.
Determined to keep well within the limits of its appropriations hoping that at the end of the year to show a surplus so that there will be no further necessity to borrow funds in anticipation of its tax revenues, the park board is having prepared a schedule of its expenses for park improvements and maintenance during the balance of 1915. Secretary Charles J. Stelm, of the board, is now at work on this schedule and he says orders from the board are to "cut or to the bone." This estimate of expenditures will include the cost of everything for which payment must be made out of the park board's funds that are produced by the 3½-cent levy. The expenses of park maintenance, the engineering, assessment and forestry divisions and such betterments as are imperative in the parks will be carefully gone over and wherever possible will be pruned. The tax levy for 1915 will yield $32,126.21 and out of this the board expects to save enough so that it will not be forced next year to make a temporary loan to carry it through until the spring taxes are available. The 3½-cent for sale in the parks will yield $1,889 this year and is not figured in the regular park revenues.

MAYOR GETS BACK ON JOB.

Returns to Indianapolis in Behalf of Local Flood Bill.
Mayor W. J. Hoesy returned to Indianapolis Monday afternoon to renew his labors with the legislature in behalf of the local flood prevention bill that was drafted under his direction and has been made to apply to Allen and Miami counties. Meanwhile, an effort is proceeding to modify the bill prepared by Governor Ralston flood prevention commission so that it will meet the views of the governor, who believes the law is in a good many respects too drastic. If the modified bill is seen to have no chance of enactment the mayor and E. W. Shirk, of Peru, will press the local measure. Mayor Hoesy believes there are hostile influences quietly at work against the state commission's bill and he does not entertain sanguine opinions as to its prospect of enactment.

William Roberts Must Support Child or Serve His Time.

William Roberts was presented in the circuit court Monday morning for sentence on conviction of having neglected his child. Judge Eggeman imposed a sentence of one to seven years in the state prison and then suspended it on promise given by Roberts that he would provide adequate support for his little one. He told the court he had a job awaiting him and that he would not again be delinquent in his duty to his offspring. Judge Eggeman told him his offense had been flagrant, but that he was willing to give him one more chance to make good. At the same time the court warned him that if he should again prove recalcitrant to his paternal obligation nothing would save him from serving his sentence.

EMPLOYER'S SAFE WAS EASY PICKING

Two Youths Rob It Often
and Then Burglarize
a Saloon.

Fred Crull, aged 18, and Russell Fry, aged 17, were arraigned in the city court, Monday morning, on charges of petit larceny and on their pleas of guilty were certified to the circuit court and went to jail in default of $500 bond each. The lads confessed that repeatedly during the past five or six weeks they had opened and robbed the safe in the Brunswick bowling alleys on East Main street, where they were employed as pin-setters and where they slept at night. John Booth, the proprietor, had long been missing his money in small sums and he suspected the lads. Finally he marked some bills and some coins, notified the police and awaited results. Detective Sergeant Tappert was detailed on the case and he rounded up Crull and Fry, both of whom confessed to him. The lads say they have been "touching" the safe three or four times a week for a long time. Fry said that Crull had learned the combination while surreptitiously watching Booth open the safe, sitting near and pretending to read a newspaper. It was also developed that the boys had entered the Atlas saloon, a saloon in the rear of which the bowling alleys are situated. They took some bar checks and some whisky. Young Fry is a son of Jonas Fry, who is now in the penitentiary for a shocking crime against his 15-year-old daughter, Margaret Fry, a sister of the young safe robber. Crull has been in trouble before for stealing. Like Fry, he is a homeless youngster, his parents being separated.

Little Lads Take Horses.
Bruno Wojciechowski, aged 10, 1921 John street, and Morris Hartman, aged 11, 2019 Hanna street, were certified to the juvenile court and turned over to Probation Officer Wesley J. Work. They were charged with loitering. During two or three days last week they had been taking rigs from the street and having joy rides, abandoning their stolen conveyances when tired of them. Bruno has been in similar trouble before. Detective Sergeant Junk and Spillner traced these trespasses to the two lads and arrested them. Bruno's brother, Frank, aged 15, was sent to the Plainfield school for boys a few days ago for participation in a burglary campaign that was led by George Weber, an older lad who is awaiting trial.

Other City Court Cases.
William Henzinger and George Orizen were fined $5 and costs each for disorderly conduct.
Dennis McLaughlin, charged with being drunk in a railway coach, was put under $100 bond to hold him until February 27, by which time it is expected that friends from the east will be here for him. He was removed from a Pennsylvania train, where his conduct led to the belief that he was insane. He is in a bad condition.

Herb Gaskill and Earl Henschen, two well-dressed young men who live on the northside were arrested on loitering charges by Officer Coulter when they refused to give him information about themselves after he had found them drinking beer in a stairway down town early Sunday morning. They were allowed to go.
Andrew Donnelly, of Baker street, was fined $5 and costs and went back to jail, from which he was released but a few days ago.
George Kano, a window trimmer, was again for being drunk and was allowed to go on promise to leave the city. He says he has a job awaiting him in Detroit.

Pat Carroll, drunk, drew eleven days; George Webb, another drunk, got $5 and costs and Andy Mueller, a house, was allowed to leave town.

Charles H. Spalding, who has been ill for several days with erysipelas, was reported a little better Monday.
